NANKING SHELLED BY JAP WARSHIPS

MERCURY HITS LOW FOR YEAR AT 11 ABOVE

Marion Feels Cold Wave Which Holds Western U. S. in Its Grip.

3 DEAD, 8 LOST IN PLANE

Falling Temperature May Avert Flood Threat in Ohio Valley.

The cold wave which Sunday set a new low temperature record in Marion for the winter, has assumed serious proportions in western sections of the United tates.

An Associated Press dispatch reports a plane carrying eight persons, believed to have crashed in a blizzard in the mountains of southern California, and three deaths in Minnesota and Oregon, known to have been caused by the bitter winter weather.

Danger of an Ohio river flood waned slightly today, although the waters rose slowly during the night, a dispatch said. Freezing temperatures yesterday helped curtail the rise by retarding drainage into the Ohio's tributaries.

Lowest for Winter

The lowest temperature of the winter here was set Sunday morning when the thermometer fell to 11 above zero. Last night's low was 12 above. The maximum temperature yesterday was 26, compared with 38 of a year ago.

Ugly clouds, strewing rain and freezing cold in their path, whirled with blizzard force over the lonely Tehachapi mountain range in California, concealing the fate of five men and three women who vanished into a storm last Friday aboard a Century Pacific air liner.

John Taylor, 14-year-old Boy Scout or Dee, Ore., was found frozen to death in the foothills of Mount Hood. Two men froze to death in Minnesota, William Seifert, 67, in the Duluth business section, and Emil Hill, 50, in an open field near Saginaw.

Rising temperatures were forecast today for much of the midwest, but cold continued along the Pacific coast, in the Rocky mountains and in northern and northeastern United States.

A record of 26 years was shattered in Yosemite National park, where an 18-inch snowfall Sunday brought the fall for the season to 127 inches.

With flood stage at 52 feet at Cincinnati the Ohio river reached 43.6 feet early today, but it was a gain of only one foot in seven hours. Rivermen said the crest of the rise will be reached probably tonight, an that it probably will not exceed a 50-foot stage.

TUESDAY BIG DAY FOR GROUNDHOG

Mr. Groundhog will make his annual appearance Tuesday under the handicap of unfavorable weather predictions.

The Ohio weather bureau predicts "cloudy and rising temperatures Tuesday, followed by snow or rain in the afternoon or night. It is likely that Mr. Groundhog will not see his shadow, which will mean, according to legend the end of winter weather.

Many say that Mr. Groundhog has been out all winter, and that there won't be anything unusual about an appearance Tuesday.

The weather forecast is increasing cloudiness, but not so cold, tonight.

Our Busy Pen

(Will Rogers Special)

PARIS, Feb. 1—Bad flying weather today kept us out of Berlin. We had better quit writing notes to Japan or she will have all China. Every time they get a note they take another town that they hadn't thought of till our note give 'em the idea.

Quit writing and warning 'em what not to do. Wait till they do something that will really affect us. This war was originally private just between them and China. The way we got in the last war was through notes. We send so many that nations can't tell which one we mean.

Our wars ought to be labeled "Entered on account of too much penmanship." Yours,

221 ALIENS ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Foreigners To Be Deported Pass Through Marion Enroute to New York.

FOUR PICKED UP HERE

Prisoners from Ohio Penitentiary Held in County Jail Overnight.

Two hundred and twenty-one heavily-guarded, aliens to be deported by federal authorities to almost every country in western Europe were brought through Marion early yesterday morning on an Erie train bound for New York City where they will be sent to their native countries. Four aliens brought to Marion from the Ohio penitentiary in Columbus were put on the train here.

Nine carloads were brought here by the Erie from Chicago and four Chesapeake & Ohio cars from Detroit and Toledo were added here.

Kept in Jail Here

The aliens picked up here, who were kept in the county jail Saturday night, were Tintero Bisbow, a native of Italy, Joze Mihelich of Czecko Slovakia, James Dwyer of England and Jesus Martinez of Italy. J. A. Fluckey, director of immigration in the Cincinnati district, was in charge of them. Officers said it was reported that one of the four was implicated in the penitentiary fire Easter Monday two years ago.

Both federal and railroad guards were in charge of the train. Two railroad officers were stationed in each car, one at each end, while the federal officers had charge of two carloads of dangerous aliens. These cars were heavily barred and the aliens were handcuffed and put under special watch.

Stops in Galion

The train left Marion at 6:05 a. m. for Galion and Akron where several other persons were picked up. At Buffalo, N. Y., those to be deported to Canada were to be turned over to the authorities after which the train was to continue to Jersey City where the Erie railroad has a special dock where the aliens will be transferred from the train to the steamer. After stopping at Ellis Island, the aliens will be taken on to their homelands.

Deportation trains such as this one are run about every three months, officials said. Aliens are gathered from over the central United States at Chicago until in sufficient numbers to fill a train.

U. S. FLEET SAILS TO 'RECAPTURE HAWAII'

By The Associated Press

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Feb. 1—The United States battle fleet weighed anchor today and slipped out into the Pacific, westward bound, fully equipped for any emergency, to "recapture the Hawaiian island." Thus began the 1932 joint army-navy maneuvers. Admiral Richard H. Leigh, battle force commander, is in command of the great "blue" fighting force.

MAY REVIVE PLAN TO BUILD UP NAVY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—Conflict in China may cause a turnabout in congressional attitude and revival of the $600,000,000 plan to build up the American navy to the limit.

Purely for reasons of economy, the naval committee of the house announced some time ago that the big building program would go on the shelf.

Now American warships have been called out on an errand which indicates there still is vital need for fast vessels and powerful guns. Many members feel that if the eastern situation becomes any worse, the construction measure should be put through.

MARION FACTORY GETS ORDER FOR GIANT ELECTRIC SHOVEL

Huge Dipper Will Have Capacity of 18 Cubic Yards of Earth.

WILL STRIP FOR COAL

Forces One To Open Safe; Highwayman Overlooks $600 in Envelope.

The Marion Steam Shovel Co. was given a contract Saturday by the Clemens Coal Co. of Pittsburgh, Kansas, for a large revolving electric shovel to be used for coal stripping.

The shovel, to be one of the largest in use, will move massive quantities of earth to lay open veins of coal located at depths ranging to 40 feet beneath the ground surface.

Capacity Is 18 Cubic Yards

Its huge dipper will take 18 cubic yards of earth at one scoop, enough to fill 12 ordinary dump wagons or five trucks. The dipper will swing on a 95-foot boom.

The completed shovel will weigh 1,000 tons. Between 30 and 35 railroad cars will be used to ship it. It will be built almost entirely in the local factory.

Actual construction work will not begin until May, pending the completion of patterns and designs, although much engineering work has already been done, company officials said. For the present, no additional men will be employed.

To Be Ready by August

It is planned to put the shovel in use in August. The Clemens Coal Co. is now using several shovels made by the local company for coal stripping.

Mounted on caterpillars, the shovel will move through the Kansas coal fields moving approximately 20,000 cubic yards of earth daily.

RAILWAY PAY SCALE IS CUT 10 PER CENT

Labor Forces Make Voluntary Concession in Hope of Aiding Business.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 2—Railway labor, from section hand to engineer, takes a 10 per cent wage cut today, with the hope it will give work to its jobless and speed return of better times.

An agreement which authorized the nation's railroads to take $215,000,000 out of the pay envelopes of the workers for one year was signed last night by leaders of both sides. It was a voluntary concession on the part of labor.

In return the workers received assurance the rails would do all conditions would justify to use the wage cut saving toward relieving distress among 700,000 jobless and 600 000 only partly employed.

The final scene climaxed 17 days of negotiations without precedent in rail-labor relations.

As labor announced its decision, its chief, David Brown Robertson, gave emphasis to the reason for the concession:

"In the hope that our action," he said, "may improve the health of our industry, may improve the relations of management and employes may stimulate a revival of business and may advance the general welfare, we have decided to accept the proposal."

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and head of the negotiating rail committee, replied:

"With you we indulge in the hope that the results of this conference may tend to improve relations between railway management and employes, and also tend to stimulate the revival of business and promote the general welfare."

Citizens' Loan Will Pay $100,000 To Depositors

The distribution of $100,000 among the depositors of the Citizens' Building & Loan Co. was begun today. This is the first distribution since the company was placed in the hands of the receiver to liquidate its assets.

Depositors must present their savings books or certificates when they call for their share in the distribution, C. D. Shaffner, receiver, announced. Holders of the "red pass books," known as running stock, can not be paid at this time because the legal status of these accounts has not yet been established, he said.

The distribution will be made by checks which can be cashed or deposited at any of the Marion banks. Checks may be obtained at the convenience of the depositors during regular banking hours, Mr. Schaffner said. Depositors need not rush or inconvenience themselves for fear they will not share in the distribution, he added.

Approximately 8,000 depositors will receive checks in this distribution. The local company went into the receivership March 30, 1931.

Sleepy Justice Halts Midnight Stock Removal

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Feb. 1—The business difficulties of A. Gross, manager of the Underselling Store that recently bought the stock of the Whitehouse Co. here, multiplied over the week-end.

Two trucks pulled up in front of the store Saturday night and were being loaded with merchandise when the local night watchman, Pearl Rinehart, reached the scene.

He notified local creditors of Gross and they went into action. Justice W. M. Kauffman was called out of bed and five attachments were taken out against the merchandise.

One of the trucks was still at the store when the legal proceedings were completed and a chase led by Deputy Sheriff J. P. Bennett resulted in the other being stopped at Williamsport, near here.

Gross, his creditors said, owed $500 for rent, advertising and light.

MINERS DECLINE TO ACCEPT CUT IN PAY

Eight Ohio Workings Idle as Men Fail To Answer Whistles.

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O., Feb. 1—Whistles sounded at eight mines in the Hocking Valley coal field this morning, but not a miner appeared for work, thus apparently fulfilling the miners' threat to strike against a decrease in wages offered by operators.

The eight mines were posted as "open" but when the whistle sounded for the men to enter the pits, not a digger was in sight.

Mines of the Ohio Collieries company, near Gloucester, opened as usual. Operators of these shafts announced they would not reduce wages at this time.

The new wage scale is a uniform rate of $3 a day and a tonnage rate of 38 cents. Previously, the scale was not uniform, and many of the operators paid higher rates.

The miners adopted a resolution calling on state senators and representatives from Hocking, Athens and Perry counties to ask Governor White for a special session of the legislature to provide relief for destitute miners.

Brothers Trade Identities To Aid Escape Plot

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 1—By switching identities with his brother, Albert Russell, 32, under indictment as a member of a midwest kidnaping ring, walked out of the county jail to freedom yesterday.

While Russell strolled out, his younger brother, Stanley, 28, sauntered in.

Similarity of the two men aided the plot. They look singularly alike except that Stanley has red hair. He overcame this obstacle by having it dyed brown to match his brother's.

Russell's escape followed a visit from his wife and her three-year-old daughter. Accompanied by Stanley, Mrs. Russell called at the jail. As he walked into the room where the visit was made, Stanley threw his overcoat and hat on a chair. Then Albert picked up when he walked out, accompanied by his wife and child.

MRS. OWENS GETS DIVORCE

Decree Granted by Judge of Union County Common Pleas Court.

WINS ON CROSS-PETITION

Marion Manufacturer Not at Hearing Held Saturday in Marysville.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Feb. 1 — Mrs. Mabel Chapman Owens of Marion was granted a divorce this morning in common pleas court from Clifford A. Owens, Marion manufacturer.

Judge F. Leroy Allen, in his entry on the court docket, said that the divorce was granted on the ground of gross neglect of duty.

Mrs. Owens was awarded the decree on her answer and cross petition which was filed in the Union county courts after Owens started his suit for divorce.

The hearing on the cross petition was held before Judge Allen Saturday. Witnesses were placed on the stand by Mrs. Owens. Owens was not present at the hearing but was represented by his attorneys.

Mrs. Owens lost a suit for a divorce filed in the Marion county common pleas court last July 28. In a decision given last November, Judge George B. Scofield of Marion county granted her alimony of $500 a month and the furniture in her home.

Owens then established his residence in Union county at Magnetic Springs and then filed his suit for divorce. Mrs. Owens then filed her answer and cross-petition on which the divorce was granted.

A property settlement was reached between the couple before the suit came up for hearing. This was approved by the court and made a part of the journal entry.

$1,108 STOLEN AS CROWD SITS THROUGH SHOW

MAN WAITS IN LOBBY

Highwayman Follows Trio from Ticket Booth; Forces One To Open Safe.

While hundreds of theater goers sat calmly through the show at the Palace theater last night a lone bandit held up the manager and four other employes and escaped with $1,108. The robbery was staged in the office, within a few feet of the theater crowd. The loot taken by the highwayman, who was armed, but not masked, included the receipts of Saturday night and Sunday.

A brown envelope containing nearly $600 lying in one corner of the office safe was overlooked by the highwayman, Manager Wheeler said today.

Waits in Lobby

Shortly before 10 p. m. the manager, J. R. Wheeler, Mrs. Fay Keenan, ticket seller, and Robert Shattack, assistant manager, closed the box office and, with the receipts in a sack, started for the manager's office in the west side of the building.

Unobserved in the crowd, a man pressed along behind them. As they neared the manager's office the bandit pushed forward and reached the door with them. As Wheeler and his aids entered the office the bandit pulled a pistol from his pocket and seizing Cecil Rutherford, an usher, who was near, pushed him into the room. Michael Crowder, a bill poster, was in the office at the time.

Flourishing the pistol, the stranger demanded the sack from Mrs. Keenan. The five were at first inclined to think it was a joke but when assured by the highwayman that he was not joking, the sack was turned over to him. He then forced the manager to open the safe and after placing the contents in his pockets politely expressed his thanks and backed toward the door. He told his captives they could call the police if they wished as he would be gone when they arrived. He warned them not to attempt to leave the office, however, as he had "several pals outside who would drill them if they came out."

Wheeler Calls Police

As he disappeared through the door, Wheeler called the police from his office phone. When they arrived a few minutes later, however, the man had vanished.

Aside from the fact that he was well dressed, between 25 and 30 years of age, and was not masked, the theater employes were unable to furnish the police with an accurate description of the man. It is believed he left the building by way of a fire door which leads to the sidewalk just a few feet from the door of the manager's office.

WHITE NOT TO CALL STATE LEGISLATURE

Will Convene Special Session Only if Local Relief Sources Fail.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 1—Ohio's legislature will be summoned in special session only if local authorities are unable to cope with their own financial and relief problems.

In a statement last night, Governor George White announced he would not convene the assembly until municipalities had exhausted every source of local relief.

From facts developed at a recent meeting with officials of eight cities and several rural districts, the governor said, there can be no question that pressing need is widespread, and that "in the opinion of those who are in position to know there is urgent need for fifteen to twenty millions of dollars * * * for 1932."

The governor said taxes must necessarily be collected by the state entailing overhead expenses which would detract from the amount available for relief, while administration by local authorities would be more direct.

Representatives of Youngstown, Cleveland, Canton, Toledo, Akron, Dayton, Cincinnati and Cleveland [illegible] were the guests of [illegible] at the conference.

PHILADELPHIAN FACES CHARGE OF MURDER

Steeple-Chase Rider Goes on Trial in Slaying of Sister's Suitor.

By The Associated Press

MORRISTOWN, Pa., Feb. 1—Edward H. B. Allen, gentleman steeple-chase rider, confronted a different kind of hurdle today—a charge of murdering Francis A. Donaldson, third, his debutante sister's suitor.

At the last minute, Stewart Nase, district attorney, decided to depart from procedure and said he would ask for no specific penalty, but only "for whatever penalty is warranted under the law and the circumstances."

The circumstances and the evidence indicate the slaying climaxed long-standing differences between the Allen family and Donaldson over his attentions to Rose Allen.

Horace Allen, the father, said Donaldson wronged his daughter. Strained relations between the 18-year-old society girl and her father and brother reached the breaking point November 18, and she moved to a hotel in Philadelphia, where she met Donaldson and it was decided he should call on the Allens to attempt reconciliation.

Horace Allen said Donaldson was ordered to leave the Allen apartment and that he replied by striking Eddie Allen. The younger Allen asked a shotgun, fired one shot, and Donaldson fell mortally wounded.

Makes Favorable Report on Management of Home

Unusual attention to detail and upkeep not commonly found in such institutions, and a steady improvement in conditions are pointed out in a report covering a recent investigation of the Marion county home. A copy of the report, made by S. C. Griffin, social investigator for the state welfare department, has been filed with the county commissioners.

Recommendations for improvements in the home were made. Excerpts from the report follow:

"There has been a steady improvement at the home, particularly in beds and bedding and in improvement of floors. There is an unusual attention to detail and upkeep here which is not commonly found in county homes. We were also impressed with the sympathetic interest taken in the care of sick and helpless inmates and with the efforts made to preserve sanitary and clean conditions under the handicap of many helpless inmates who need constant attention.

"The separate building for men is still badly in need of remodeling. All worn out floors, baseboards and wainscoting should be removed and replaced by non-absorbent fire-proof material of cement or composition.

"We recommend, just as soon as finances will permit, that this building be equipped with non-absorbent fire-proof floors.

"We are also calling attention to over-crowding in this building. . . . All rooms are filled beyond normal capacity and we suggest that all cases of permanently disabled men be cared for by the county in their own homes until such time as there is a vacancy at the county home. This is being done extensively in other counties at a per capita expense less than it would cost at the county home."

Candidates for Training Camps To Be Selected

Marion County Quota for C. M. T. C. Set at 10; Applications Already Filed for Places; 4,000 Young Men To Be Enrolled in Camps.

Candidates for the Citizens' Military Training camps in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana will be selected beginning Tuesday, it has been announced at U. S army headquarters in Columbus.

E. H. Shade of 681 Girard avenue, in charge of obtaining students from Marion county, said today that it was very probable that the 10 who represented this county at the camps last year, will return this year. Application for this year's camps were made by the students while at camp a year ago, he said, and this group, if they still wish to do so, will again represent Marion county.

In event any of the group do not care to go this year, others will be drawn from a group of 15 whose applications were accepted last year but who did not go because of the limited quota.

A third group will be made up of those who file applications this year.

Training camps will be held at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Fort Thomas, Ky., and Fort Knox, Ky., from July 5 to Aug. 3. The Fort Harrison camp will open two weeks later than usual this year.

Major General Hugh A. Drum, who recently assumed command of the Fifth corps area, United States Army, with headquarters at Columbus, expressing the opinion that little difficulty will be experienced in obtaining the 4,000 men who will be accepted for the camps. General Drum, in a recent statement, said that citizen military training is just as important as training for citizenship papers.

"One who does not know the fundamentals of national defense has no more right to citizenship than the most ignorant foreigner who has not applied for citizenship papers," he said. "To say a youth should know the fundamentals does not mean he should be a soldier. Citizens' Military Training camps are designed to teach only a small part of the mechanics of the army and most of the time is spent in educating the youth in being a good sport and a good citizen."

While rumors are current in army circles than an attempt will be made to declare a sort of moratorium in training of C. M. T. C., candidates, reserve officers and the national guard, those interested in national defense, expressed the opinion that sufficient sentiment would be mustered to continue the training. It was pointed out that this is the first time since the World war that efforts have been made to eliminate entirely the appropriations for the National Guard and other component of the army.

Etiquette Wins Favor as Prison Reading Topic

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam's prison wards are going in for etiquette.

Books on how to do this and how to do that are in great demand. And it's the male prisoner who wants to know the proper way to use his knife and fork, the proper evening clothes to wear, and how to meet a lady, and how to write a letter.

Besides the etiquette books, volumes on success are avidly read. There are waiting lists for biographies and texts on psychology. Bizarre volumes on travel vie for popularity with the natural and mechanical sciences.

Prison experts have an explanation. They say it's an expression of the prisoner's desire to improve himself, to learn how to think more clearly—"to get a grip on himself."

So the experts are cleaning up libraries in penitentiaries, weeding out the old texts inherited from the war and supplying prisons with trained librarians. Education, recreation and better discipline are the three-fold purpose.

WEATHER CONDITIONS CUT FARM FEED COST

Large Fall Harvest and Mild Winter Contribute to Savings.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 1—The [illegible] growing season for 1931, the [illegible] harvest last fall, and [illegible] winter have enabled [illegible] to affect substantial savings in feed costs during the last [illegible] months, according to Carl J. [illegible] research director of the Ohio Farm Bureau.

"The market for mixed feeds has been dull all winter," continued [illegible]. "Prices have declined appreciably but farmers have been supplementing their home grown grain [illegible] by buying what supplements they need to make a balanced food. Consequently, prices of ingredients have not suffered such an extensive decline as have ready mixed feeds; neither have they encountered so dull a market.

"The abnormally mild weather has permitted much outside feeding, thereby reducing feeding requirements. The continued mild weather has favored pastures in the entire eastern half of the United States, with many reported still green as far north as Wisconsin. However, in parts the ground is too soft for the stock. The soft ground has hindered the harvesting of corn in some of the mid-western states. Nebraska, for instance, reports that 14 per cent of the 1931 corn crops is still unhusked and farmers in some sections of Kansas are finding it necessary to buy feed because they cannot go into the fields to obtain the feed they raised.

"Prices of wheat millfeeds continue on a low level. Bran is now selling in many localities for $12 to $13 per ton, which is some improvement over the low price $8 per ton quoted late in the fall. Prices, however, are still erratic in their movement.

EDISON MEMORIAL BRIDGE PROPOSED

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY, O., Feb 1—One of the objectives of the recently organized Sandusky Bay Fish and game association is to obtain for Milan, O., birthplace of the late Thomas A. Edison, the erection of a memorial bridge in honor of the great inventor.

The association proposes that the memorial bridge be constructed over the Huron river, and that Milan residents donate sufficient land to the state for erection of approaches.

Members of the association, including farmers and sportsmen from Erie, Sandusky and Ottawa counties, will promote bird and fish life in the Sandusky bay region. W. H. Reinhart of Sandusky, State conservation commissioner, is one of the leading backers of the organization.

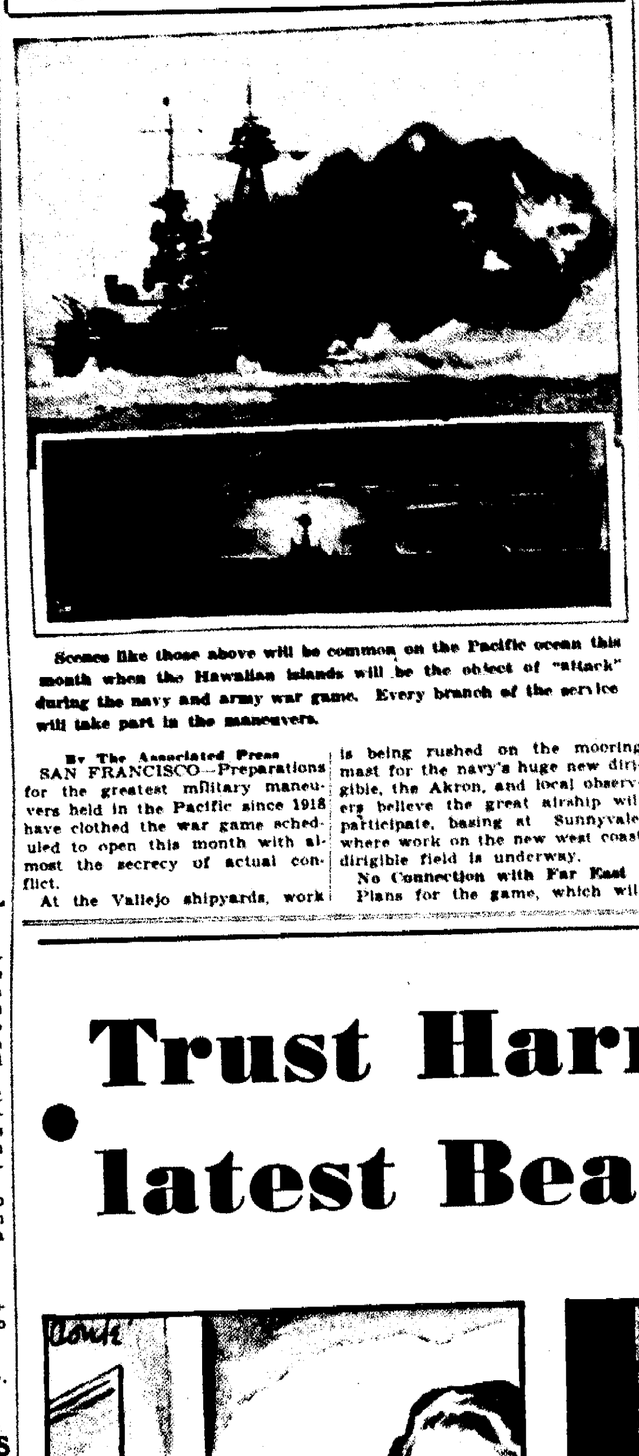
Army and Navy Mass for "War" on Hawaii



Scenes like those above will be common on the Pacific ocean this month when the Hawaiian islands will be the object of "attack" during the navy and army war game. Every branch of the service will take part in the maneuvers.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO—Preparations for the greatest military maneuvers held in the Pacific since 1918 have clothed the war game scheduled to open this month with almost the secrecy of actual conflict.

At the Vallejo shipyards, work is being rushed on the mooring mast for the navy's huge new dirigible, the Akron, and local observers believe the great airship will participate, basing at Sunnyvale, where work on the new west coast dirigible field is underway.

No Connection with Far East

Plans for the game, which will involve the use of every arm of the service, were laid two years ago, and it is stated have no relation to any political developments of recent months in the Far East.

The maneuvers will be a test of the defense of the Hawaiian islands and San Francisco will be used as a base for the expeditionary force of the army.

The "attack" probably will be launched against the islands at some unrevealed date early in the month. Before the opening troops and guns will be taken to Hawaii, but it is planned to transport the artillery horses and infantry mule trains for use after landing if the attacking fleet is able to penetrate the defense of the islands.

Convoys Provided

The transports will be convoyed by destroyers and it is expected fast scout cruisers will be brought from the east coast through the Panama canal to join in the war game, some, with their planes, being attached to the attacking forces and others to the defense.

These maneuvers will bring the big new type submarines into use under war conditions for the first time and will be one of the few joint operations of army and navy.

The naval part on behalf of the attacking force will be to reduce the defending submarine and surface fleets and to cover landing operations by bombradment of land fortifications.

The regular naval maneuvers will follow the sham military expedition against the nation's mid-Pacific territory.

France Takes Hand

France for the first time joined in with representations to Japan and the promise of an armoured cruiser now stationed in Indo-China.

Short of presentation of an ultimatum to Japan for withdrawal of her invading force, the American action was the most forceful conceivable. Use of the regular army abroad has for precedent only the relief on Peking in the Boxer rebellion of 32 years ago, and the A. E. F. of the World war. Virtually the entire U. S. Asiatic fleet will be massed at Shanghai.

Diplomats Assemble

Geneva became the political forum of a troubled world today as diplomats of 64 nations assembled for the disarmament conference to open tomorrow.

As the delegates arrived, China, through W. W. Yen, her spokesman, renewed her plea to the league to take "effective measures to prevent Japanese aggression and to preserve peace."

Stay Out of Conference

The United States declined to participate as a member of the League of Nations neutral commission for investigation of the chaotic situation at the Shanghai, though it agreed to instruct a consular representative to "cooperate."

The position was explained to be due to the fact that the commission would be sitting under article 15 of the league covenant, to which the United States has not subscribed.

30,000 Chinese Guard Nanking

By The Associated Press

NANKING, China, Feb. 1—Thirty thousand of the finest troops in China streamed into this city today and lined up along the riverfront where a number of Japanese warships lay at anchor.

They barricaded themselves behind sandbag fortifications on the city wall and the situation grew tense while civilians moved back into safer ground.

Some of the Japanese ships put landing parties on the docks but there were no open hostilities.

Japan To Keep Army in Manchurian Area

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Feb. 1—The Japanese army which fought the Chinese in Manchuria, will not immediately take a hand in the Shanghai situation, which is to be left for the time being to the navy, government officials announced today.

The duties of the army in Manchuria were reported increasing, however, and officials said full strength will be directed against Harbin in spite of the fact that Soviet Russia today indicated it might protest the entry of Japanese troops.

Foreign Minister Yoshizawa said Japan welcomes the increase of forces of other nations at Shanghai. He called in the American, British, and French ambassadors yesterday to solicit the support of their governments for measures to persuade the Chinese to abandon warlike operations at Shanghai.

lull in firing, eased the tension in the foreign colony. Besides the six warships reported to have sailed from Manila it was said another destroyer tender would follow soon. In addition to the British cruiser now on the way from Hongkong the British aircraft carrier Hermes stood ready to proceed north, while H. M. S. Cumberland, now in drydock at Hongkong, also was ordered to prepare for service with all speed.

Defense Forces Increased

Defense forces of the international settlement increased their guard as much as possible, and began construction of secondary defense lines within the settlement.

Japanese cotton mills within the international settlement and in the area patrolled by United States marines, were barricaded today and machine guns appeared upon their roofs, manned by Japanese marines.

Most Chinese shops and banks were closed. The fronts of some shops were literally carved out by the hail of bullets.

Many Hongkew streets in the vicinity of the Chapei sector were closed and it was impossible to observe the situation there.

Sunday was a bloody day. There were outbreaks of rifle fire in the downtown area of Hongkew and in the French concession. Japanese forces were reported to have caught 28 Chinese in the yard of the Chinese Christian church in Hongkew and to have executed 20 of them.

All Japanese residents of other quarters of the city were moved into Hongkew yesterday, where they were under the direct protection of Japanese sailors and marines. Seventeen Japanese airplanes roared over the international settlement during the day.

All through the entire lower section of the Yangtze river valley a wave of apprehension spread. Reports from various river ports as far west as Hankow, 650 miles away, told of feverish preparations by Japanese communities against possible Chinese attacks. Confusion filled the streets of Hongkew and the important Nanking road when without warning, they were spattered with a rain of bullets from rifles and machine guns.

This evening a shower of bullets came from somewhere near the central postoffice close to the border of the Hongkew district.

Crowds were passing but no one surrounded the building and set up was wounded. Japanese marines machine guns, but could not locate the source of the firing.

The international authorities later established a postoffice guard of the "white" Russian section of the settlement garrison.

Except for those bursts of shooting, a silence which seemed strange had fallen upon the foreign area at dusk.

SCENE OF FAR EAST CONFLICT

This map shows the entire area of the Orient involved in the latest outbreak of Sino-Japanese hostilities, and the relative location of major cities involved. While virtually all the fighting has occurred at Shanghai, Japanese cruisers were ready for action near Nanking, the Chinese capital. Japan also was attempting to move troops to Harbin, major Manchurian city.

Oregon Man Testifies to Proof of Killing of Lincoln's Slayer

THE DALLES, Ore.—The ghost of John Wilkes Booth, slayer of Abraham Lincoln, was stirred here as L. E. Dawson, local electrician, gave testimony to disprove theories of Chicago scientists that Booth was not killed as history has described.

Dawson declared his parents lived next door to "Boston" Corbett, Union soldier, depicted by historians as Booth's slayer. According to Lawson, there is no possibility of Booth having escaped as scientists are endeavoring to prove by a series of X-ray examinations of a mummy exhibited at circus sideshows for several years as the assassin's remains.

Dawson became acquainted with "Boston" Corbett in the small town of Concordia, Kansas. Many times as Corbett came to the Dawson house to visit, he heard his parents discuss the killing of Booth after Lincoln's death, Dawson said.

"'Boston' Corbett was looked upon somewhat as an outlaw in those days," Dawson related. "It was common knowledge that he had killed Booth and although I never discussed the shooting with him because I was a mere boy, I remember overhearing many conversations about the affair.

"Corbett's mind was seriously affected by that shooting and I believe that he later died in an insane asylum. He was permitted to carry a large caliber gun because he had hallucinations that someone was following him to kill him.

"The man was an odd character. He was quick on the trigger and was given ample freedom by the residents of Concordia. Although this was 18 years after he shot Booth, he still carried the idea that Booth or someone else was after him.

"Corbett always was called upon for patriotic speeches on July 4th. I remember one time he mounted the platform and before he started to speak, he drew his gun and started waving it over his head. When he finished there were no people to speak to.

"On another occasion he chased the district attorney with a gun because some one had him arrested for disturbing the peace.

"This attempt on the part of science to definitely establish the fact that Booth was not killed, but wandered about the territory and finally came to death by his own hand, is ridiculous," Dawson concluded. "The slayer of Lincoln paid for his deed with his own life, and that life was taken by 'Boston' Corbett."

Bus Runs 353 Miles per Qt. on 12c Oil
But Only 213 Miles per Qt. on 30c Oil

A test that should be of interest to all motorists has just been made on a city bus which covers about 175 miles a day.

This bus consumed 2 quarts of our 100% Pure Pennsylvania oil in 706 miles.

or 353 miles per quart.

Oil which retails at 30 cents per quart (not a 100% Pure Pennsylvania oil) the same bus consumed 3 quarts in 639 miles.

or 213 miles per quart.

For 1 cent this bus ran 29½ miles on our 100% Pure Pennsylvania oil as compared to 7½ miles on this advertised (non-Pennsylvania) oil.

What more convincing proof could any one want as to the superiority of 100% Pure Pennsylvania oil?

Why continue to pay 30 to 35 cents a quart for oil which is not as good as our 100% Pure Pennsylvania oil which sells for 12 cents?

If you want further proof make this test on your own car.

Have the crank case of your car drained and filled with our 100% Pure Pennsylvania oil. Run your car 500 to 1000 miles. Drain out what is left and learn how much you used for the distance traveled.

Then do the same with any high priced oil.

Perhaps you are one of the few who do not use our oil because you think the price too cheap or have been told that we can not sell 100% Pure Pennsylvania oil for 12c a quart.

As yet no one has taken advantange of our offer of $500 to any one who could prove that we did not sell 100% Pure Pennsylvania oil.

Thousands of motorists know the economy of using our oil and hundreds of motorists have told us of mileage up to 70,000 miles with perfect results.

And if you have trouble starting your car try a tank full of our 68-70 350 end point gasoline, the finest gasoline made for winter driving. The price is the same you pay others for low test gasoline.

Daily Proverb—"A diamond with a flaw is preferable to a common stone without any imperfection."

The ever-reliable Associated Press tells us in a wire from Palm Springs, California, that Professor Einstein winked at Pola Negri. "Tut, tut" Albert! Be your age!

Accidents will happen. A dry patrol who shot a passenger on an excursion steamer near Detroit was found guilty of assault and battery, and by a United States court jury, too.

Former Ambassador James W. Gerard tells us that "the future belongs to the bold." Sounds like the former kaiser.

The Leviathan will be returned to the transatlantic service April 26. It will be like old times to have the one-time pride of the United States lines once again carrying our flag over the seas!

There is no end to the peril, seemingly, which lurks in home brew. Such was the explosive force of an article made by a citizen of Prince Albert, up in the Saskatchewan, that it drove the metal cap on a bottle of the stuff down his throat almost strangling hime before he could be taken to the hospital, where the cap was removed.

Former Sheriff Culkin refused to sign an immunity waiver before testifying how he deposited $1,929,759 during his two terms as sheriff in New York, and it seems that the present incumbent in the office, who succeeded him, has been more than generous in applying interest collected on money in his hands to his own account.

The pass of an Illinois state legislator to see Al. Capone on "a personal matter" has been revoked by the assistant United States district attorney. Just why, a lot of people will be inclined to wonder, should a law-maker of Illinois want to see a notorious character such as Capone, and what could be the nature of the "personal matter?" It is owing to associations along that line that crime is thriving in this country as it is today.

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, says he would hate to have the school children of the country think the "Father of His Country" looked like the bust sent out by the George Washington bicentennial commission. But then, even a senator may not have all the appreciation he should for high art.

The two big Canadian railway systems are being urged to take over the radio in Canada by the Canadian Radio league looking to the improvement of programs in the Dominion. We do not know that turning the radio over to the railroads would work any improvement in programs down here, but certainly a lot of them couldn't be made much worse than they are, and anything might prove acceptable as an experiment.

Helping Each Other.

Where should the federal government buy its supplies?

The usual answer is: Where they are cheapest. The government has been following that policy, but hard times never fail to produce a feeling of dependency, so the policy may be changed.

The administration favors preference to American-made articles, and will attempt to get legislation favoring support of home trade enacted in congress. Politically, the preference is wise. Economically, it is open to questioning.

The universal demand of the people for governmental economy will not be answered by buying supplies at a higher price because they were made in the United States. Neither will international good will be increased.

However, if the question is asked whether or no economy and good will are more important than helping American industry, the answer is "No." Perspective always is shortened in difficult situations. Necessity demands that problems coming first to hand be taken care of first.

Unit monetary values in many countries from which the United States buys supplies are decreasing. Prices are low, even lower than they are in this country. Competitive bidding, therefore, is practically impossible, since the American bidder is eliminated by the maintenance of the gold standard. It is only fair that he should be awarded contracts which he needs. The postoffice department has been doing as much for American shipping lines for years. Unmixed good may not be the result, but whatever harm might be done would be a smaller factor than American manufacturers' satisfaction in knowing that the government was willing to give them undivided support. It would have been conspicuously inconsistent to have overlooked foreign government supply contracts when the federal government is doing so much for business in other ways.

"Good Enough for Grandpa."

An aerial photograph of Ohio, if one could be taken of the entire state, would show eighty-eight courthouse roofs under which are working more or less purposefully as many battalions of county officials. It would make a good picture under the title, "One Reason Why Taxes Are So High." It would attract large and appreciative audiences, if hung in a conspicuous place in the county treasurer's office at tax-paying time.

There never has been a better time to call attention to the draining of public resources by taxation leeches. The taxpayer is feeling the pinch, or at least realizes that others are feeling it. He has been aroused by the complaint of "too much government" coming simultaneously from many quarters. He would like to do something about it, but he doesn't know how to start. The system of democratic representation doesn't inform him clearly on the procedure of getting rid of government. On the contrary, it has been vastly productive of more and more government.

A formidable army of jobholders posts a standing warning against entertaining any ideas that might grow up to destroy the existing abundant supply of public positions. He can't blame them; they are doing the best they can to protect themselves. He naturally arrives at the conclusion, however, that even talking doesn't accomplish anything.

He is wrong on that point. In every state, in every county and every township of the United States there are people convinced that modernization of traditional units of rural local government is necessary; that it is inevitable. These people constitute a potential movement of vast importance, which will materialize as soon as it develops sufficient substance and finds leaders. First, it must be "talked up." People lazy enough to say that "what was good enough for grandpa is good enough for me" must be stirred out of their apathy. Able men must be shown the opportunity to establish themselves in popular favor by advocating local government reform. Talk is the agent to do this.

The movement will go into the legislative stage, where it will be strengthened by overcoming the opposition of armies of public jobholders. Eventually, it will materialize in legislation to bring local government up to date. There will be years of struggling, perhaps. But advocates of improved forms of local government, meaning elimination of all outworn units, have one great factor in their favor. They are fighting a system that is slowly dying on its feet, weakened constantly by the fumes from automobiles that make insistence on having a county seat within horse-and-buggy-driving distance appear as foolish as that outmoded form of transportation itself. It would be greatly to the credit of Ohio if it could be the first to accomplish what every state eventually will turn to for taxation relief—elimination of useless governmental units.

Anyway, we are willing to say this for the portrait of President Hoover painted by the internationally known artist, Philip de Laszlo: the newspaper half-tone reproductions of it plainly show that the likeness of the vestee worn by Mr. Hoover is an excellent one.

The trustees of the Chicago sanitary district have voted to cut the pay of the non-union men among the 1,400 employes on the canal job and pay the union men by the hour, figuring thereby to make an annual saving of $456,000, and to ask aid from the United States government. Off hand, we assume that Uncle Sam is to be asked to make good the hundreds of thousands of dollars in one or another form of corruption burned up on the job by Chicago politicians.

The Prince's Big Problem.

Selling the world on the idea that you were a great fellow and deserving of rapid advancement was an important requisite of success in the late boom years. It still is, but latterly the methods of appraisal have become considerably more painstaking. Value is its own salesman these days.

Americans are peculiarly fitted to understand what seems to be a personal problem troubling Edward, Prince of Wales, probable successor to his father, King George, of England, therefore. The prince, too, has to sell the world on the idea that he is a great fellow, a job which he has been working on with success for a good many years.

The latest flourish in the campaign is entirely in the modern manner—moving pictures to show good subjects wherever they may be that the prince is worthy of their respect and active support. Edward will be shown to them, for instance, getting out of bed at a sane workingman's hour, 6:30 of a raw English morning.

For the benefit of Indian enthusiasm, he will be shown drinking a large cup of tea grown and packed by Indians. For the benefit of office workers he will be shown "getting down" in the morning earlier than most of them do and sticking at his job for fourteen hours a day. Nothing will be spared to make the prince out the fine fellow he undoubtedly is.

Occasionally, a rumor that the British throne is threatened by insecurity gets around in this country. Prince Edward, who will have to assume the risk of sitting on it some day in all probability, seems to be protecting his interests.

The house has followed the lead of the senate and turned a cold shoulder to the efforts of New York, Chicago and a number of other large cities to get federal relief from their frozen credit conditions through the administration's reconstruction finance corporation. It's good to know that cities which permit themselves to be plundered by dishonest office-holders and politicians have thus been given notice that they must look elsewhere than to Uncle Sam for relief.

The apology of Belgian Foreign Minister Hymans to the United States for insults to America printed in the papers of Belgium has brought an uproar from the press over there, which, overlooking the fact that the apology was unsolicited, charges that our ambassador over there is trying to stifle the liberty of the press. The Belgian papers might realize that the liberty of the press can be fully enjoyed within the limits of common decency.

Editorial Opinion.

THE CIGARET PAYS.

Facts presented to the house ways and means committee, which is studying taxing methods to balance the budget, show what grave injustice will be done to a thriving industry, and to its consumers, if additional taxes are placed on cigarets. As Junius Parker, representative of the industry, pointed out, the government is already the senior partner in the cigaret business. It takes eighty per cent. of the gross profits of cigaret manufacture, the most important branch of the tobacco industry, from which the government takes more than ten per cent. of total receipts or approximately $500,000,000 each year.

If it were not for the government tax, a package of cigarets now retailing for fifteen cents could be manufactured, distributed and retailed at a profit for nine cents. Of course, the added charge is all passed along to the consumer, who pays the federal government forty per cent. on each cigaret he smokes, and now in a great many states is also paying the state government for the privilege of smoking. The double reaction of a further increased tax on cigarets would be to cut down consumption, which already is low; to endanger the success of the industry, which now is doing quite well, and to cut actual revenue received by the government under the present tax.

Similar reasoning holds good for other industries which the federal government is eyeing with a view to taxation, notably the motor industry. It shows signs of awakening, and it is generally conceded that if one industry can have greater influence than any other on the return from dull times, that industry is the manufacture of automobiles. Yet the government holds tentatively an idea of levying direct and indirect taxes against purchasers and owners of motor cars. Nothing could more quickly darken the bright prospects with which the year in motordom has opened.

Taxation of commodities for which there already is too little demand is an unwise way to balance the budget.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE OUTBREAK IN INDIA.

Moslems in India riot and rebel in a dozen villages. They loot government postoffices, and burn the houses of Hindus who are Gandhi's disciples. The aggressors seem to have once more heard the prophet's call to arms. The precepts of Islam control all their relations in life. Every able-bodied Moslem is, theoretically, a fighting man. They resent Protestant control by England, but deep-rooted prejudices and hereditary hatreds make them more intolerant of their Hindu neighbors.

"My people will never agree in error," is traditional from Mohammed. Error is whatever the non-conformists believe, say and do.

Gandhi got his civil disobedience ideas from the American, Thoreau, who went to jail in Massachusetts because he wouldn't pay taxes to a government which then tolerated slavery. The Moslems get their traditions of aggression and conquest from the lore of Mohammed. They would rather rule than be martyrs.

Whether Gandhi is winner or loser in his disagreement with England, the Indian issue will continue ebullient.—Toledo Blade.

WASTED BY CONGRESS.

Speaking of the cost of government—and who is not, nowadays?—the public printer at Washington presents facts that speak for themselves, in his annual report to congress. Let them so speak:

"During the last ten years, 10,503,405 copies ordered by the various departments and establishments of the government for official use or free distribution, have failed of that purpose and have been sold as waste paper. In the same period, 7,470,935 copies of publications available for sale by the superintendent of documents have likewise become obsolete or otherwise unsalable. These useless publications, mostly pamphlets, added to the 5,925,499 returned by depositary libraries, make the total waste of publications during the last ten years amount to 23,899,839 copies, the printing and handling of which cost the government much more than a million dollars."

And this is not all. Thousands of publications annually allotted to members of congress, regardless of their special needs, are waste. A few years ago 2,000,000 such publications were sold as waste paper. They had never been removed from their wrappers. And the public printer believes there are more tons of such matter stored in and about the capitol.

Speaking of the cost of government.—Minneapolis Journal.

And Then Some.

This country may be dry, but there is still enough moisture to sprout wild oats.—Columbus Citizen.

The Word of God.

Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such a one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.—Galatians 6:1.

Real Colitis Cases Not Frequent.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Not so long ago the word "colitis" was used by many persons without understanding its meaning. Whenever the symptoms of some intestinal disorder were vague and uncertain the term colitis was used to describe it. Just as happened in the early days of appendicitis, colitis became a fad.

I do not mean to say there is no such thing as colitis, nor do I deny that many suffer from this ailment; but I do wish to warn you that real colitis is not common.

This inflammation is caused by an infection. Many bacteria normally invade the colon and other parts of the large intestine. If for any reason there is a lowering in the resistance of the walls of the intestine, germs will enter and infection take place.

In colitis, usually spoken of as "mucus colitis," the victim becomes alarmed over the mucus stools. The attacks may come on in paroxysms, and often the pain is severe and colicky in nature.

Worry, emotional excitement or faulty diet may bring on an attack. Constipation is a frequent factor. As a rule, however, there is severe diarrhea.

In treating this condition, drugs are of little value. The most important thing is attention to the diet. The food should be of a type to leave a large residue in the intestine. I refer to diet that contains a great deal of roughage. It is best that the diet be a meatless one for a short while, and particularly without much animal fat.

In addition to regulation of the diet, the colon should be cleansed daily by hot or warm irrigations. The temperature of the water should be between 110 and 115 degrees. Enough of the fluid should be used to thoroughly cleanse the colon.

Colitis is confused with a simple inflammation of the intestine known to doctors as "catarrhal enteritis." In this the chief symptom is diarrhea, and it may be caused by a variety of things.

In children, particularly, the chief cause is the use of improper food. It may follow overeating, or the taking of unripe fruit.

Many suffer from this condition because they are extremely sensitive to certain foods. The food is good, but some peculiarity of the system makes it unwelcome.

Poisons formed by the decomposition of milk and other foods may be followed by diarrhea, and disturbances of this kind in children are common during the excessive heat of summer.

The pain in these enteritis cases differ from that in colitis. It is less severe and is not spasmodic. Colitis is usually a chronic affair, and does not subside as quickly as the simple cases of diarrhea.

Very often change of diet and surroundings will relieve the trouble. Rest and fresh air may be enough to overcome the vague and discomforting pains of colitis.

Birthplace of the Saviour.

BY TEMPLE MANNING

On a limestone ridge five miles south of Jerusalem stands the ancient town of Bethlehem, where, according to the Bible, Jesus Christ was born. This town, of course, has been the magnet that has drawn millions of devout Christians to the Holy Land for generations.

But the scene of the Nativity is not the only attraction for tourists which come to Bethlehem, although it is, naturally, the one that they are most eager to see. Bethlehem was the early home of David and Joab and contains the site of the birth. In addition there are the "Altar of the Magi," the "Tomb of Eusebius" and the cave where Jerome made his translation of the Bible.

The scene of the Nativity was desecrated during the reign of Hadrian by a temple to Adonis, but in 330 A. D. it was enclosed by a basilica built by the orders of Constantine. The Nativity is located in a grotto on the eastern part of the ridge. Today Bethlehem contains convents, schools and monasteries.

The natives of the town make their living principally from the carving of crosses and other sacred mementoes. It is curious that besides being one of the spurs that sent hordes of Holy Crusaders to Jerusalem, Bethlehem and the famous grotto were determining causes of one of the great wars of the past century.

This was the Crimean war of 1850. A dispute arose just before the outbreak of the conflict between Russia and France. Russia claimed the key to the chief door of the basilica, and also denied the right of France to place a silver star with the arms of France in the grotto. Russia, of course, represented the Greek Catholic church in this international argument, and France the Roman Catholic church. After trying to adjust the matter, the Porte yielded to the French, and the Crimean war, among other things, followed. Around the grotto, besides the basilica, convents of the various branches of the church have been erected.

Perhaps in the entire Holy Land no sanctified spot attracts more travelers than this little grotto where Christ was born. No more important event in the entire history of the world has been recorded and its scene is honored each year by hundreds of thousands of the devout coming from all parts of the world.

The Soldier Poet.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

A story is frequently encountered in the newspapers to the effect that General William H. Lytle, author of the poem, Anthony and Cleopatra, wrote the poem in his tent near Chickamauga the night before that battle, in which he lost his life. The poem was written in Cincinnati, and first appeared in the columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Lytle wrote verses occasionally all through his career as a lawyer, practicing at the Cincinnati bar, but this is the only one that lived. If a poet, he must be classed with those whose title to such classification rests on a single poem.

He was born in Cincinnati in 1826, and graduated at the Cincinnati college at the age of twenty. He entered the military service of his country in the war with Mexico. He was captured. That war over, he studied law and practiced until the Civil war came along. He again offered his service, and was made colonel of the Tenth Ohio. He was badly wounded at Carnifex Ferry, and at Perrysville, but, rejoining his command, he was made a general and at Chickamauga commanded a brigade under Sheridan. His command was ordered to make a desperate charge in which at least the officers knew there would be a heavy loss. He was always a punctilious dresser, and it is said that, as he left his headquarters to lead his brigade in this charge, he drew on his gloves observing characteristically that if he was to die he would die like a gentleman.

The fact that he fell with three bullets in his body, all striking him about the same time, indicated what a rain of shot he was facing. As those who saw him fall, were carrying him to the rear two orderlies were shot down and an officer, Colonel William B. McCreary, wounded seriously. General Lytle died on the way to the rear, and his body fell into the hands of the Confederates by whom it was buried with honors and later sent to his home for final interment.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Thursday, February 1.

The Star reported that the ball given the night before in the Huber hall by the Elks would be the last in the hall, which had been rented by the Erie railroad.

Governor Judson Harmon paid Marion a visit, coming here as a member of the prison commission looking for a site for a reformatory.

The Star reported the marriage, the night before by Rev. Father Joseph M. Denning, of Miss Elizabeth Shanahan and Mr. Clifford B. Gorton.

Friends learned of the marriage in Huntington, Indiana, the preceding Saturday, of Miss Pauline Seitz and Mr. George Beckley, both of this city.

George D. Copeland, Frederick Guthery and Michael Waddell were selected as a jury of freeholders to decide whether LaRue, at the recent local-option election, had gone dry or wet.

Mrs. Jacob Schoenlaub was hit by a coaster on south State street and badly injured.

The fire losses in the city for the preceding month were reported as $1,549.46.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Moloney, of north Prospect strett.

Mrs. Mary E. Ridenour died from blood-poisoning resulting from a slight scratch on one of her hands.

Miss Bessie Honan and Mr. Franklin A. Shearer, both residing north of the city, eloped to Covington, Kentucky, where they were married.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, Feb. 1—Diary of a modern Pepys. Betimes and a beautifully touching letter from the mother of Ralph Barton. And so by coach to the Courtney Ryley Coopers to see their new Boston. Mr. Michael O'Toole, then to Leon Gordon's studio and we talked of art, letters and creme de cocoa.

Home and a letter from John Erskine to write a piece for his new literary journal. And William Seaman stopped by and answered my recent query as to the name of a kummel like white drink flecked with gold by presenting a flagon of Danzinger goldwasser. So loafing with George Buckley.

In the evening to Arch Selwyn's play, brought from London, and fell mightily in love with Diane Wynyard. And talked to George Tibbetts awhile. Later to a dance of theatrical folk and spoke to Edward G. Robinsons, Estelle Taylor, Marshall Nielan, Edmund Carewe and Louise Groody.

There are lusty tales of the talented, highly exploited and married stage couple who work in doubt harness professionally. The association is devoid of usual irritations. Regarded by most critics as the most capable of the two the wife bemeans her own acting and thus feeds the insatiable vanity of her egocentric husband. It is always he who is triumphant. In the wings after scenes she will exclaim, "How magnificent you were and how terribly I bungled things!" He comforts and otherwise laughs off her feigned fears. A superb actress on and off. And he's an equally superb ham.

New York's leisure class is asking relief from charity requests. They are mostly widows who find that what was once comfortable incomes are notices of passed dividends and defaulting bonds. There is much to be said in their behalf. In the past few weeks I have been reliably told of four such victims whose incomes four years ago were more than $15,000 a year, but who now receive less than $3,000.

A New York scientist declares freckles symbolize the mottled confusion of genius. He points to O. Henry, speckled from head to toe at one extreme and fighting Bob Fitzsimmons at the other. He further points out freckles are rarely found on the physical or mental weakling.

The most freckled individual I ever saw was a scamp of a porter hustling tourist baggage at the port of Havre. His hair was fiercely red, his shoulders enormously wide and his freckles were dollar sized and coppery. Dudley Field Malone, disembarking at the same time motioned to him and cried: "Hey, Spotty."

James Montgomery Flagg dropped into the nearby studio of Ham Fisher, who draws the jovially rowdy Joe Palooka comic strip. Fisher was hurrying to be off to an engagement. Flagg told him to go on. "I'll finish it," he said. Fisher was overwhelmed—the old master aiding the noviciate. "Would you deign," he began, but Flagg interrupted with, "Great deign to you!" And sat at the drawing board.

The Waldorf boasts the largest Persian rug in the world in its main lobby. It was completed in ten months and thirty weavers devoted their entire time to the making. Among the intricacies are 12,600,000 hand tied knots. I am told that weavers who devote long periods to such work become sentimentally attached to their handiwork. There is weeping and wailing when the finished product is baled and shipped off to some foreign shore. Imagine falling in love with a rug.

And I like the spirit-of-the-times note from a season debutante on crested Long Island stationery. Says she: "No one would ever believe I suffer from dish water hands just now, but it's true."

Europe 150,000,000 Overpopulated.

BY RICHARD D. M'MILLAN

Paris, Feb. 1—U.P.—Former Minister of Finance Joseph Caillaux has calculated that Europe has 150,000,000 more humans than she can support. As emigration to the United States has ceased, he believes Europe soon must create a new colonizing ground in Africa.

The French politician, who was France's debt emissary to Washington, recalls that President Hoover, when food commissioner in Europe at the end of the war, estimated that the Old world at that period had 100,000,000 more people than she could feed. Caillaux now believes the figure has increased 50,000,000.

"In 1810, the globe contained only 680,000,000 human beings," the French ex-minister declared. "By the year 1913 it had 1,750,000,000. The population of the world had therefore increased by more than 1,050,000,000 people. In the space of a century the human race has more than doubled itself.

"As for Europe 110 years were necessary for her to triple her population. In 1910, the figure was 180,000,000; in 1913, it was 450,000,000.

In the course of his researches and calculations, Caillaux has made an astonishing discovery. From the time of the Romans, he finds, Europe passed thirteen centuries with an increase of only 50,000,000 population. In the single century just passed, the increase on this side of the Atlantic was 270,000,000.

The reason for this is believed to be due to several causes—the diminution of warfare, the subjugation of pestilence, the increase of propaganda by various nations for the increase of population and, most important of all, the arrival of the industrial area with its prosperity and guarantee to the masses of the means of rearing offspring.

What alarms M. Caillaux is that if Europe does not find a safety valve for her surplus population, which she can not support, the old continent might experience a convulsion and be plunged into a war of extermination.

"It appears to me, however, that there is a means of avoiding this," he said. "Africa is at our doors. The Black continent can accommodate a part of Europe's population. Africa is three times larger than Europe and counts only five inhabitants to the square kilometer. At the same time that it provides a colony for Europeans, it affords an outlet for European industrial production once the surplus population is settled there."

The former finance minister believes that the idea of colonizing Africa is more practicable than the ideas of dictators and captains of industry, who believe they have other solutions for Europe's ills.

PASTOR HITS VICE IN TALK

Bucyrus Minister Preaches Second Sermon on Crime Cleanup in City.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Feb. 1—"What Will Bucyrus Do About It? What Are You Going to Do About It?"

The first question was the topic of the sermon delivered by Rev. John D. Green, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, before his congregation Sunday night. The second was the closing thought of the sermon. Both questions referred to alleged conditions of vice and bootlegging which recently brought statewide mention.

Rev. Green asked his congregation what Bucyrus residents were more concerned about, "Mental culture or moral corruption." He said that Bucyrus needed to "develop a civic conscience."

"Members of the churches will have to cut out booze parties and stop being customers of the bootleggers. Bucyrus persons must resent conditions such as have been revealed in the city rather than resent the reputation the city has acquired through the investigations," the pastor told his congregation.

Last night's sermon was the second of a series delivered by Rev. Green dealing with conditions in the city, the first having been delivered two weeks ago on the subject, "How Did Bucyrus Get This Way?" Investigations made in the city a month ago by private investigators, backed by a local committee of which Rev. Green was a member, netted 28 bootleggers and other vice and law violators.

Believed to have been kidnaped by mistake, the six-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aguilar of Los Angeles is the object of an extensive search by police of Mexico City. Torn from her mother's arms while sitting in a public park of the Mexican capital, the child was abducted by two men. Authorities are convinced that the kidnapers mistook the Aguilar baby for that of a Spanish woman residing in the same apartment and are confident the child will be restored unharmed. Daily Care Needed To Keep Skin Clear and Free from Blemishes

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

IF the texture of the arms and elbows is marred by redness, undue dryness or by dry pimples, the following treatment will clear the skin of these blemishes within a remarkably short time, if you follow it each day.

Hold the elbows in very hot water for five minutes. This is far more important than you may realize at first. To treat this condition successfully, however, it is necessary to soften the skin by the quickest method.

If the skin is red and exceedingly dry, pat a liberal amount of warm olive oil over the affected area as soon as the elbows have been removed from the hot water and dried. Massage this oil into the elbows and the skin surrounding them until most of the oil has been absorbed by the pores. Remove the little remaining oil from the surface of the skin and smooth a generous amount of nourishing cream or lotion over the elbows and arms. A cream or lotion which has a base of almond is especially good at this time, for such creams or lotions are exceedingly rich in softening and nourishing elements.

The almond preparation should be left on for fifteen minutes at least. If possible, take this treatment at night and let the almond cream or lotion remain on over night.

If the dry condition of the skin covering the elbows and arms has been of such long standing that small, dry collections have clogged the pores, a good scrubbing with soap and a flesh brush should be used as a means of removing the olive oil instead of wiping off the excess with a cleansing tissue.

The olive oil applied after the five-minute soaking will have softened this collection of dry matter sufficiently to make their removal with the lather and brush painless and efficient.

After rinsing off the lather and drying the arms, apply the almond nourishing ointment. If you haven't a bath brush you may use ordinary cornmeal.

Removing the Almond Cream

To do this, simply moisten a bit of cornmeal in a saucer until it is useable, then take some up in the palm of your hand and rub the meal over the other arm and elbow. Treat both arms and rinse off with clear water. The rough texture of cornmeal serves to work off the dry skin and impurities from the pores and is as effective as the bath brush but much messier to use.

To remove the almond preparation, saturate a pad of cotton with skin tonic and smooth it over the arms and elbows. Keep moistening pads of cotton with the tonic and sponging off the skin until all trace of previously used preparations is eliminated. Let the last of the tonic dry naturally.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Coffee and Jealousy

HOPE had come with the others to watch the ski-jumps because they had heard of this young Dicky Dale—son of the theatrical producer — who was raving with his father at the North Woods inn . . .

She actually came to see what the wonder ski-jumper was like.

Took one good look and gulped!

Watched him fly — soaring through the air, steady, keen, controlled; and land with a balancing, swaying movement that caused her heart to bounce for no particular sane reason....

Saw him heading back—waving and grinning to the crowds!

Rose to her feet and set herself in his path. Quite deliberately. Quite impetuously. Marched herself to the top, and announced she would try the jump. Announced, carefully, when Dickey Dale was within hearing.

She paid no heed to the protests of her friends. The refusals to let her attempt it—the assurances that she'd break her nice white neck and have to be carried home on a stretcher.

Still she insisted she was going to jump!

And then, quite swiftly, Dickey Dale put his hand on her arm and gruffly swung her around to face him.

"Don't be a fool!" he grinned at her—and who could say they didn't believe in Santa Claus, and look at his sharp blue eyes? "I saw you tumble yesterday on a 10-foot jump. Yes I did, little one. I saw you fall. You're not going down."

"I beg your pardon!" said Hope coldly.

"That's all right. You be a nice child and go over there and sit down and watch me. When I get through, if you're good, I'll take you for some hot coffee."

Somehow no answer was forthcoming. Dickey Dale waited for no answer. He guided her, hand under elbow, over to the benches. Bowed low, and told her to be sure and wait.

Started off again. While Hope's heart turned a somersault at the audacity of his leap—150 feet into a curving, balancing, shining run. . . .

Quite snappily she argued with Rusty, who has resented Dale's manner. Quite neatly she evaded the others.

Quite naturally she and Dickey went off for some hot coffee. He, bending at her feet in the snow to unlace her skis, and half lifting her, so cold she was, into his funny clap-trap car.

Climbing in beside her, grinning good-naturedly and saying:

"I know who you are, little one. Heard all about you. You're Hope Ross. I've been hearing about you ever since last summer. I know one of the boys you threw overboard, Joey Beams."

"Oh, do you know Joey?"

"Sure, he's in college with me. Class ahead. He certainly did some out-and-out talking about you."

"That sounds like Joey," Hope shrugged. "I hate knockers."

"Then I shouldn't have asked you to ride in this car!"

"It sure is noisy," Hope agreed as they bumped along. "And it makes gestures, too. Why don't you pension it?"

"I wouldn't break its heart," Dickey frowned at her. "Why, this car knows me like a brother. It's devoted to me. It would do anything for me. You see, I raised it from a chassis. At an auction of old, decrepit and derelict automobiles. I bought one car. That's the body of this. Cost me $30. I kept it in a cellar for months.

Then I'd buy more cars at auction and gradually build this into a vehicle. I can do 65 an hour, an that's pretty good for a total cost of $60, an old moonstone ring, one sweater and a canoe."

"It is," marveled Hope, "a classic! You're nothing less than a scientist."

"Oh, I did it for the wife and kiddies," Dickey grinned at her and his eyelashes batted in the wind and almost hid the sharp blue that caused Hope's heart to parachute. "Are you cold? We'll be there in a minute, and we'll have some good hot coffee. Or don't you like coffee?"

"Oh me—I'm a coffee hag."

"Say, you're all right!"

"You're not bad yourself."

"That was a pretty mean turn you did Joey Beams, though. I must be careful. You're not going to treat me like that?"

"You don't deserve to be treated at all! Humiliating me right in front of everybody, and treating me like a child! I know who you are, too. Just heard of you since I came up here, though. Your father is the theatrical manager, isn't he?"

"Yup. J. Hickson Dale known wide and far as Good Old Hickey. I'm going to take you to meet him. Right now. Grandest guy in eight states, Hickey is."

"Which eight states?"

"Oh, any old eight states. Say, you're mighty pretty, Hope, but you have a big smudge of dirt on your chin. It jars my esthetic taste. Do you mind wiping it off?"

She frowned bit her lip, and giggled.

"You do it," she suggested.

He stopped the car—and did it.

When Dickey brought her home around midnight and she introduced him dutifully to Papa Ross, Hope was desperately in love....

Once in a Blue Moon....

Who would stoop to be bored the following day with skiing or skating, when such a sport as ice-fishing might be enjoyed? When Dickey Dale, the best ski-jumper on the ground, disappointed his admiring public to bring you to a little shack set plank in the middle of the lake, and sat you down on a little stool close to a tiny glowing stove, and baited your line for you? When, in an enormous hole cut through three or four feet of ice, you could haul out smelts, listen to the cracks and rumbles of the ice about you, and talk serious gibberish on breathlessly unimportant matters with a man like no other you'd ever met?

The party at Placid was successful—both Yuletide and New Year's eve included. Dickey was forced on the gang, for all the skulking jealousies of various male elements—particularly Rusty—and Rusty—and Rusty—and acknowledged by Papa Ross as being a "fine young specimen.".

Papa Ross simply couldn't make dinner with Hickey Dale at the North Woods inn; but Hope succeeded in wheedling him into inviting the jolly old theatrical man for luncheon at the club. A man whose eyes glittered with brusk pride over his son's audacity but who took his own winter sports indoors, in the form of deuces wild. A grand man! A picturesque, roistering, jolly man, sweet as a sunbeam and shrewd as a fox. A diamond, said Papa, in the rough; a man, he added, of the soil. A fine man, but, as Papa shrugged with an indulgent and friendly smile, hardly in their class....

That was the first time Hope flinched. The first moment that Papa Ross really dropped in her bewildered estimation.

But the moment was short-lived. Quickly forgotten. For, the grand and supreme crown of the entire party was her bid from Dickey to his college "prom." Never had she been to a prom trot at Harmouth!

On the way home again, a new light lurked in Hope's childish eyes. A bid for the Harmouth prom from the handsomest, strongest, bossiest boy she had ever met. A junior, and the quarter-back of undisputed rep, class president, oarsman who had won his letter, and a boy who even lived in New York! Right close by!

Even the amazing and delightful shock of finding upon her return home that she really was something of a matchmaker, for Charlie Rand was serious about Goody, failed to rouse Hope from her reverie of new infatuation.

For the first time Hope exerted herself to the effort of letter-writing. Big, round, childish scrawl, with sadly misspelled words, and a total disregard of grammar, which she always posted with a special delivery stamp—and then watched for the postman as though every day were Valentine's day.

So long it was, until the prom! So heavy-footed the days. So extremely dull, these small town boys—so silly!

And then, one Saturday afternoon, she experienced the surprise of her life.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Ronald's Martyr Role in the "Scheme" Touches Madge.

NOEL did not yet realize that Ronald was paying special attention to Mary I saw that with relief as I watched his proud eyes following her movements. Her dancing is so incomparable that he is used to having her claimed by many eager partners and with Ronald mindful of my adjuration not to make his attentions to Mary too conspicuous upon this evening, my fear of complications upon Noel's part—at least for these few hours—vanished. But Marion—ah! there was another story. Apparently absorbed in her dance with Bill, and the flirtation through which she was leading the enraptured schoolboy, no person not cognizant of the scheme we had staged could have interpreted the furtive glances she gave Ronald from time to time.

Ronald Plays His Part

But I gleefully translated them, even as had her stepfather. There was bewilderment and resentment in those sidelong, scrutinizing glances. Her thrall had filed through the iron collar so long binding his neck if he had not yet cast it aside, and instead of implicit obedience to her every whim as had been his attitude ever since she had known him, he was giving her no higher rank in his scheme of things than "among those present."

He did not make the mistake of completely ignoring her. That was the only thing of which I had been afraid, and when Bob Trevellan cut in on Hank dancing with Carolyn, and Hank promptly took his sister away from Ronald, I watched the boy closely, to see what he would do when left upon the dance floor with no partner.

I need not have feared. He chatted with Noel for a minute or two, then cut in upon Bob, danced with Carolyn until the phonograph selection ended, and then while the next was being put on, strolled over to Marion and asked her to dance with as casual an air as if she had been his sister or a favorite cousin.

Marion's smiling assent was casualness itself, but I guessed that underneath that apparent carelessness, she hid the primitive impulse to bite and scratch. If she had dared the discourtesy, she would have liked to have refused him the dance, but her breeding triumphed over her emotions, and two exceedingly personable, outwardly smiling, but miserable young people slid into the tango.

"I agree with you," I said to Harry Underwood. "The scheme is working, but I don't want to see it in action. Let's go back into the dining room!"

"Incurable romanticist, or hungry lady—which?" he asked, as we went out of the room, followed by Lillian and Dicky, and totally unnoticed by any of the young people.

"Both, I think," I told him, and then Katie, with worried face, dashed out into the hall from the kitchen.

"Oh-h! goot!" she exclaimed, her voice lilting relief. "I tought you folks nefer coming back, und all dees stoof so goot before, in ten more meenits not fit to eat. I don't know," worriedly, "eet not so hot at dot, now?"

Making Ready for Guests

"Have they turned off the gas?" Dicky demanded, wilfully misunderstanding her. "Can't you get a fire to heat it up?"

Katie giggled, the aim Dicky desired, I knew, and turned her eyes upon him.

"I no mean hot by fire," she explained painstakingly, "I mean not so hot—not so goot—slang, you know."

"Yes, I know," he said chokingly, while I nudged him warningly, for Katie's pride in her knowledge of American slang is a touchy point with her. He said nothing more, and in another minute we were back in the dining room, discussing our belated dinner from the course at which we had left it.

We spent a busy two hours afterward transforming the bungalow into bedrooms and lounge adapted to the comfort of two much-traveled gentlemen, and when we had finished, I voiced a perplexity that had been in the back of my mind ever since the code telegram had been translated to us by my father.

"Will you be back here before these young people go to bed?" I asked.

Harry Underwood ran his hand through his hair and looked at Dicky.

"Barring no delays at the bay where they've told us to meet them at one, and no—mishaps—on the road we should be back well before one-thirty—it's only a few miles over there," Dicky replied. "How about it, Madge, can you get them out of the trenches, or rather into them by that time?"

"Why try?" Lillian asked. "It strikes me their dancing and the house lighted up would be very good camouflage for the other activities, if anybody is watching from afar—nobody can get very near, thanks to the Chief's barrage," she smiled affectionately at my father who had come over to the bungalow, to give our efforts his approval. "For my part, I'd let 'em keep on dancing until morning if they wish. You can tell 'em we have unexpected guests, and if you attach your various electric gadgets to the outlets in the bungalow, and take over the food now, you and I, Madge, can heat up a supper in no time. They'll probably be hungry. It's a lucky thing you were so generous with outlets for the bungalow, Dicky bird."

"Yeah?" Dicky drawled disgustedly. "Little did I think——"

"You spoke the truth there, lad," Harry Underwood gibed, "only you should use the present tense and add "at any time."

But with a little constriction of my pulses, I knew that the friendly gibe was intended to hide what I already had seen as well as had Mr. Underwood. My husband could not bear to feel that the bungalow he had fitted up with such loving care for my occupancy, should be turned over to Hugh Grantland and his Chinese friend. And if he were betraying his jealous chagrin at this stage of the game, what might he not say or do when Hugh Grantland should arrive?

RED-BLACK COMBINE IN TIE FOR SECOND

Presidents' Attack Falters in Third Period After Gaining First Half Lead.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

HARDING High school's band of Red and Black basketeers were catapulted into a triple deadlock for second place in the North Central Ohio league standings Saturday night at Mansfield as the Tyger court combine coached by J. Russel Murphy turned back the Presidents by a single point in a fiercely contested hardwood conflict. The final score of the battle was 18-17.

The Saturday night clash ended the first round of competition in the scholastic circuit. Mansfield, by its victory over the Bohyer-coached quintet, is the possessor of a one game lead over the rest of the field, having won four and dropped one, while Harding, Ashland and Shelby are sharing the second rung position with a record of three victories and two defeats. Galion and Bucyrus are trailing the pack with one win in five starts.

For the first two periods of the battle it looked like Harding was destined to finish the first half of the championship race on top of the standings. Bohyer shifted his lineup from the one which has been started in earlier games, sending Blecher and Fred Vestal to the forwards, Jack Ling to center, Dick Morgan and Don Lindsey to the guards.

Defense Strong

With both teams playing a tight defensive game the business of scoring in the first period gave way to a battle for possession of the ball. Fred Vestal looped in the only two-pointer for Harding after a clever bit of passwork had carried the ball underneath the bucket. A successful charity toss brought the count to three for Harding as the period ended, against two for Mansfield, both of the Tygers' points coming on free throws by Frankie Fisch.

Jack Ling committed two personal fouls in the first period against Fisch and Fisch made both shots good.

Hardly had the second period gotten under way than Harding loosed a sudden assault on the basket that saw a pair of baskets soar through the net before Mansfield realized what was happening. Jack Ling dropped in a charity throw to increase the advantage before Mansfield took time out to get settled down.

Frankie Fisch, brilliant Mansfielder, playing his last high school game, committed his fourth personal foul before the period was half completed and left the game. Hartman, gigantic six feet, five inch center replaced Fisch.

Hartman Bags One

Hartman managed to connect for a basket shortly before the half ended, the only two pointer collected by Mansfield in the entire first half.

Harding players were in command of the situation for the first half, stopping Mansfield's offense cold while breaking through for numerous shots themselves. Only inaccurate shooting kept the margin between the teams fairly close. Harding was ahead 11-4 as the half ended.

Coming back strong in the second half Mansfield turned loose a scoring drive that blasted the previously air-tight Harding defense into bits, then proceeded to apply a liberal coat of whitewash to the Presidents in the third frame. Three baskets were tossed through in rapid fire order by Seymour, I. Smith and Hartman before Harding assembled its blasted defenses and got back in the game. Mansfield added another bucket just before the gun cracked to end the third period and finished the quarter with a single point 12-11 advantage.

What a Battle!

A terrific battle ensued in the early stage of the final frame as Harding battled to regain the lost lead and the Tygers fought to increase their advantage to allow use of the stalling game. Mansfield dropped through another tally to take a three-point lead and Bohyer hurled Billie Hero into the fray in an effort to turn the tide toward Harding.

Hero obliged by breaking loose for a bucket as soon as play started and Harding had hopes of getting back in front of the parade. Gene Brandon, the colored flash dashed these hopes as he flipped one through the net from the middle of the floor. Jack Ling scored his second field goal of the game to again narrow the gap but Brandon promptly retaliated by a sinking another long shot.

Hero Scores One

A free throw by Don Lindsey brought the count to 18-16 for Mansfield with something like 30 seconds to play and on the next play Brandon fouled Hero and the Harding forward was awarded two shots.

Hero dropped through the first shot without as much as disturbing the net but the second one missed its mark and the score stood 18-17 with 20 seconds to go. Harding had the ball under its own basket as the game ended but failed to connect for the field goal which would have won the game.

PRESIDENT SECONDS LEAD N. C. O. CIRCUIT

Mansfield Humbled 15-11 as Harding Rallies Late in Game.

Harding High's Jay Vee basketball team retained its position as undisputed holder of first place in the N. C. O. league reserve race Saturday night by handing Mansfield the short end of a 15-11 count. The victory gave the Marion seconds five straight victories against no defeats and the setback dropped Mansfield into second place with four won and one lost.

Mansfield led the Marion boys in the first period of play but lost the lead as Harding rallied in the second frame, the half ending 9-8 in favor of Harding.

Harding failed to score a point in the third period and Mansfield chalked up one basket to take a 10-9 lead. A free throw in the fourth period gave Mansfield a two point lead before Harding snapped out of its slump and started getting points.

With four minutes for play Harding rang up three baskets in quick succession and then retired to back court and stalled the ball for the last two minutes.

Johnnie Vestal topped the scorers with seven points.

Olympic Hope

From the performances to date of Uncle Sam's decathalon stars, it appears that the foreign invaders will have to step some to garner any honors in the event in the coming Olympics. Frank O'Bryan, all around athlete of the University of Nevada, who is shown above, working out, recently scored 7,652 points in the 10-event classic. The world record is 8,100 and O'Bryan seems assured of a place on the U. S. Olympic team.

Bob Sled Races Steal Winter Olympic Show

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 1—Once more the men who made a dangerous international sport of the youngster's pastime of sliding down a hill have stolen the show from competitors in half a dozen other winter Olympic fields.

A breath-taking smash on the most dangerous curve in all bob sleighdom—a smash that sent Captain Werner Zahn, Dr. Hans Meihorn, Heinrick Rossner and Charles Devine to hospital cots with broken bones, cuts and bruises—rocketed the bob sleighers back into the spot-light.

They were hurt when their 500-pound bob-sleigh, traveling a mile a minute, smashed over the top of zig-zag curve and sailed 100 feet through the air before it crashed into a tree.

Harry Homburger and Hubert Stevens, American pilots, both made full runs down the treacherous course before authorities called a halt over the violent objections of foreign teams, who insisted their necks were their own to break as they wanted.

But authorities created more bitterness by forcing the visitors to ride only a mile, and then with full brakes set.

The foreign teams were greatly annoyed at being restricted—"like children"—one said, and insist they need the practice more than the local boys, who have ridden the slide for more than a year.

DE PAUW FAVORED TO COP CAGE CROWN IN BUCKEYE CONFERENCE

Miami University Appears To Be Biggest Threat to Indiana Quintet.

BY JAMES L. RENICK
By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 1—It begins to look as though Depauw university has taken a year's lease on the Buckeye Athletic association basketball title.

The other seven quintets in the league roll merrily along cutting each other's throats while the Hoosier cagers ride high and dry with five victories and one defeat. It will take at least two setbacks to bring Depauw down.

One of those lickings may be administered this week when the fast traveling Miami university outfit invades Green Castle Saturday night. The Red Skins, after a hesitant start, have hit their stride to go into undisputed possession of the second place. A 22 to 32 defeat by Cincinnati is the only setback suffered by Miami in its last five starts.

Ohio Wesleyan will make two attempts this week to better its standing. The Bishops take on Denison Tuesday night at Delaware and entertain Wabash Saturday night.

Friday night will see Wabash playing at Wittenberg and the Bobcats of Ohio and the Bearcats of Cincinnati clawing at each other in the Queen City gym, a game that really holds the spotlight of the week. Cincinnati has been dubbed the "hardluck" five of the conference, dropping three consecutive games by a total margin of three points.

In the Ohio conference, Case and Mount Union continued to increase their lead during the past week. Kenyon and Wooster both attempted to dethrone the Scientists, but with no luck. Mount Union added another victory to its string at the expense of Kent State.

This week will see the Mounts tackle Muskingum at New Concord and Bill Lange's cagers may do what five other teams have attempted to accomplish unsuccessfully. Case will have easy sailing, taking on Hiram Saturday night. The Scientists have won six consecutive games this season, all by sizeable scores.

In Saturday night's games, Ohio university defeated Muskingum, 24 to 20, Case beat Wooster 27 to 14; Wittenberg trounced Denison, 35 to 22; Miami won from Wabash, 31 to 25; Findlay walloped Bowling Green in a rough game 45 to 30, and John Carroll lost its second game in as many nights to a Michigan quintet, the University of Detroit taking a fast contest, 35 to 24.

CALEDONIA BEATEN IN FAST GAME, 33-31

County Church Leaders Have Only Two More Hurdles To Clear.

A brilliant last period rally that netted 12 points paved the way Saturday night for a 33-31 Waldo Reformed victor over the Caledonia Methodists in the Marion county Sunday school league and virtually assured the Reformed team of the championship of the rural league. Waldo is now in undisputed possession of a one game advantage in the loop with only two games left for play and it is hardly likely that either of the last two opponents will be able to halt the Reformed team's drive for the title.

Playing for the second week in a row with two valuable players missing from the lineup on account of injuries, Caledonia put up a game battle against Waldo all through the fray and until the last period clung to an advantage.

Dick Whiteamire and Ted Reed were both out of the Caledonia lineup but their places were taken care of in good style by Earl Reed and D. Lyons.

Stepping out in the first period, Caledonia romped into a 14-8 lead and ran the advantage to 18-11 by the time for the half-way intermission. The Methodists outplayed Waldo all through the first two periods.

In the third period Waldo came back strong and checked the Caledonia scoring spree, holding the Methodists to six points for the quarter while ringing up 10 for the Reformed ledger. Caledonia, however, still led 24-21 as the final quarter got under way.

Another Waldo rally in the last frame saw the Caledonia lead vanish as Waldo dropped in two pointers in rapid succession. Caledonia battled hard to protect its small lead but the fight was lost by a two point margin as the game ended with Waldo leading 33-31.

In two other games Saturday night, neither of which will likely have any bearing on the league championship, Green Camp turned back a fighting Pleasant team 24-21 and Morral overwhelmed Prospect 39-22.

Pleasant Trinity Lutheran, after losing six straight games, did an about face in form against Green Camp and forced the Baptists the limit before finally succumbing by the narrow margin of three points.

Paced by Disterdick, who racked up eight points, the Pleasant team kept on nearly even terms most of the game. A last period Pleasant rally fell only three points shy of deadlocking the count.

Prospect collided with a fast-moving Morral team in another start of the triple program and came out second best as Cochran and Mercer led a scoring attack that netted more than enough points to have won the game.

Cochran parted the meshes for seven field goals and a trio of charity tosses for 17 points while Mercer turned in a total of eight tallies.

FOUR TEAMS REMAIN IN BIG TEN CHASE

Northwestern Setting Pace in Western Conference with Six Victories.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 1—With the schedule about one-third finished, four teams are still very much in the battle for the Western conference basketball championship.

Northwestern seeking a second straight title, stands at the top, undefeated, in six games; Minnesota is in hot pursuit with four victories and one defeat; Michigan has won four out of six, while Purdue, pre-season favorite, has won two out of three.

Ohio State and Illinois have won three and lost two, and still must be ranked as contenders. Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and Chicago, each defeated four times, have no chance of finishing near the top unless the leaders fall to pieces.

Only one conference game is scheduled for this week, Chicago meeting Iowa Saturday night. The loser will become sole owner of last position.

WELTERWEIGHTS TO TOP MAT PROGRAM

Henry Jones, welterweight title claimant of Provo, Utah, will meet Pat Finnegan, sensational Detroit matman, tonight in the main go of the regular weekly wrestling card at the Steam Shovel gym. They will clash in a two-hour time limit, two falls to win affair.

In the semi-final bout of the program, a 45 minute match, Frank Wolff will clash with Ray Carpenter of Lancaster. The latter match will be a light heavyweight battle.

DIAMOND MOGULS IN LAST MEETING PRIOR TO 1932 CAMPAIGN

Tony Lazzeri Mentioned in Possible Trade Between Yanks, Chisox.

BY GAYLE TALBOT
By International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—Major league club owners and other dignitaries of the national pastime gathered today for the final get-together before opening the 1932 campaign.

The occasion was the annual mid-winter schedule meetings, the American league today and the National tomorrow.

There was very little business before either league. Technically the purpose is to approve the schedules drawn up by Presidents John P. Heydler of the National league and William Harridge of the American last month. Actually the confabs do little more than brings the boys together for any last-minute trades.

Tony Lazzeri, veteran Yankee infielder, was understood to be on the auction block. The Chicago White Sox, admittedly were interested in Tony. The only thing standing in the way was said to be Chicago's reluctance to part with a first class pitcher.

One of the big attractions of last night's banquet was Hack Wilson, pride and joy of the Brooklyn Robins, who motored in from Martinsburg, W. Va., to greet his new employes. The pudgy outfielder obviously was pleased to meet the people who wanted him $50,000 worth.

Groenhoff piloted a glider 160 miles without touching earth.

BARMAID OF BERLIN BECOMES BARONESS IN PICTURE AT OHIO

The romance of a Berlin barmaid and the younger brother of a wealthy German manufacturing family is told in "Her Majesty Love" which will close Wednesday night at the Ohio. Marilyn Miller was the lead. Ben Lyon does well with his role as the younger brother, but Ford Sterling as the head of the family, Leon Errol as her nobleman-suitor and W. C. Fields as her father offer the most entertainment. Marilyn's position as a barmaid and her father's lack of social niceties causes quite a row in the family, but she manages to become a baroness and settle the objections.

Bing Crosby's comedy, "I Surrender Dear," is the best entertainment that a radio star has offered on the screen in a long time. You enjoy Bing's struggles at romance. An organlogue and newsreel are on the bill. H. H.

"The Deceiver," which will close at the Marion Tuesday, is a pretty good mystery show. Find out who the father and daughter are before the last minutes of the picture, and you've found the murderer. But the picture is well directed, and if you do guess the murderer, you'll wonder about the motive until the last minute. Ian Keith, Dorothy Sebastian and Lloyd Hughes have the leading roles. Keith is an actor, Miss Sebastian is his leading woman and Hughes is his understudy. Keith is murdered in his dressing room and thereon hangs the tale. Frank McHugh gives a lot of laughs in a comedy "The Newshound." A newsreel completes the bill. H. H.

COURT NEWS

Files Foreclosure

Judgment for $11,710.82 and foreclosure of a mortgage on 246.2 acres in Salt Rock township are sought by the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. in an action filed against Joseph H. Borders and Ruth Borders in common pleas court Saturday. French Crow is counsel for the insurance company.

Files Answer

The Industrial Fire Insurance Co. filed an answer in common pleas court Saturday in the action brought against it by Callie Augenstein in an effort to collect on a policy. The company and the insured disagreed over the amount of loss, Callie Augenstein failed to furnish a notary's certificate as to the amount of the loss, and used the building as a tourist's hote when it was insured only as a dwelling, the insurance company contends in its answer. She also is charged with making fraudulent statements to the company, including an assertion that she did not know the origin of the Other shares making similar gains included Southern Pacific, New York Central, Standard of N. J., Bethlehem Steel, McKeesport, Case, and Liggett & Myers B Issues up a point or more included General Motors, General Electric, American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco, and Curtis-Wright A.

If a war boom were developing, it was explained that weakness in non-ferrous metal prices was indeed paradoxical. Both copper and zinc prices were lower, and both foreign and domestic buying was at a low ebb.

The railway announcement was regarded in several quarters as news of outstanding bullish implications. Usually well informed quarters in Wall street looked for early steel purchases by the carriers in substantial volume. Estimates as to the amount of orders likely to be placed in the next fortnight varied widely, but around 250,000 tons was regarded as probable.

GRAINS SCORE EARLY GAINS

Far East Crisis and Securities Advance Have Stimulating Effect.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 1—Helped by upturns in securities, grain prices scored an early advance today. The grain market was also stimulated by indications that the far east crisis was becoming more serious and by apparent likelihood that damage had been done to domestic winter wheat. Opening ½ @ ½ higher, wheat afterward showed additional gains. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ higher and then reacted a little.

Contributing to the upward trend of Chicago wheat values today was relative strength of Liverpool quotations, together with signs pointing to a fair amount of North American wheat business. On the other hand, the amount of wheat afloat for importing countries showed a large increase both as compared with a week and a year ago. Rising temperatures in domestic winter wheat territory were also stressed by bears.

Unconfirmed rumors of warlike happenings indicative of greater chances that the United States might be directly involved by the Shanghai situation led later to continued advances in wheat. Minor downturns which intervened on account of profit taking sales were quickly succeeded by fresh rallies higher than before. A further advantage to bulls came from reports that France would increase the amount of imported wheat allowed to millers. Corn and oats were largely responsive to wheat action.

Provisions went up with hog values and with cereals.

PLAN FOR PEACE SENT JAPAN, CHINA

Today

What It Is
The Big Provocation
What Would Happen
Viewing Both Sides

[illegible] ARTHUR BRISBANE

[illegible] ANGELES, Feb. 2—The [illegible] al war, Nanking is bom[illegible] a Japanese warship [illegible] the United States in [illegible] to Japan.

[illegible] joined in the protest [illegible] Tokio receives the pro[illegible] ions shrug with her plans [illegible] of battles, calmly.

[illegible] am is in the front line of [illegible] and activity. In addition [illegible] and men, already sent, the [illegible] fleet has now been start[illegible] its way from Manila to [illegible]

This reminds Americans that, [illegible] the fleet in Asia's [illegible] would be silly to abandon [illegible] Philippines, where ships and [illegible] can be kept within striking [illegible] distance. Our greatest folly [illegible] agreement not to fortify [illegible] that was done at the [illegible] conference when the [illegible] Four did our thinking for [illegible]

JAPAN REJECTS the plan to [illegible] a neutral zone in Shanghai [illegible] anywhere else in China. [illegible] Asia, Asiatics, if you do [illegible] Asia we are Asiatics, if you do [illegible] Asia, we are foreigners. [illegible] seems to [illegible] Japan and America claim, and claim to [illegible] the right to protect [illegible] lighting. The French consul general at Shanghai announces that a division of French infantry will soon arrive, bringing the French forces up to 5,000 men.

"PROVOCATIONS" are plentiful. In Manchuria the Japanese press offers the blown up, 34 Japanese killed. Today a Japanese dispatch says that the American Texas oil plant with machine gun fire. It was explained that exploding firecrackers near the oil plant were mistaken for Chinese forces shooting. The exploding firecrackers would seem to be superfluous in Shanghai now, in reply to British protests against havoc caused by bombing from incoming Japanese. In Shanghai, Japan has promised to use smaller bombs, which recall a comic opera song, "Shoot Him Gently, Oh, So Gently."

A British cruiser brought marines to the European Settlement and half way around the world in Wall street, "the market was buoyant," the stock of the du Pont company, which makes powder and of the United Aircraft Co. that makes flying machines, were very active.

THE WAR IS HERE, and the question is, when will the BIG provocation come? When will something happen to drag in one or more of the western nations, and make a real war of it, with fighting on both sides? Now, the Japanese are fighting and the Chinese are saying "ouch!" It is a one-sided war. Big Russia, with her five-year plan number two in hand evidently meant to keep out of active participation.

But suppose some patriotic Chinese, borrowing from a European [illegible] saying "The end justifies the [illegible] should destroy other-[illegible] destroy an American or [illegible] Italian fighting ship. Then the Japanese would be accused, it would cease to be an Asiatic war only

* * *

THE EXTRAORDINARY FACT that war forced on us, or too [illegible] and willingly entered into, [illegible] actually do what the [illegible] men have been unable to do, and start a boom. Already what [illegible] silver, copper, grow signs

Here's Why Cigarettes Taste Better

● There's one Right Size for Cigarettes

● Examine various cigarettes, and you'll find they are not all alike in size. Yet our scientists say their tests and research fix one definite size standard as the best. For a given length, our experts say, there is one right diameter . . . to make the draft right . . . to make the cigarette burn right.

Not only that, when the size is right, the cigarette lasts longer, and smokes cooler. And that "right" size is exactly the standard Chesterfield size.

A detail? Of course—but a mighty important one, figured in extra coolness and comfort. It's by constant attention to just such details that Chesterfield sets cigarette standards.

Notice how round and full each Chesterfield is—how firmly packed. There are two "electric detectives" on every packing machine, to check this detail also!

The right size . . . and the right quality. Chesterfield never changes either one. Measure them any way you want—with ruler, microscope, or test-tube.

Or measure them in the surest way of all—by milder and better taste. And you'll find—They Satisfy! Good, they've got to be good!

● Chesterfield's Radio Program is way above standard! Lee Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and Alex Gray, popular soloist, entertain you tonight . . . while you lean back and enjoy a mild, pure Chesterfield. Remember the hour . . . 10:30 E. S. T.:... over the entire Columbia Network... from coast to coast.

WARNER TAKES HOOVER FIGHT TO WASHINGTON

Marion Man Reported in Capital To Induce Johnson To Enter Ohio Race.

HAS APPOINTMENT TODAY

Indicate Belief Prominent Republican Could Upset President in State.

Fred W. Warner of Marion, member of the Republican state central committee and former Republican state chairman, today was credited by Washington news dispatches with carrying his anti-Hoover fight into the nation's capital and interring that Senator Hiram Johnson of California will be invited to enter the Ohio presidential primary in May in opposition to President Hoover.

In Washington Today

Warner and Homer Eagle, a newspaper editor of Gallipolis, also a former Republican state chairman, were in Washington today, and were believed by newspapermen to have an appointment with Senator Johnson. Both men refused to confirm or deny the report that their mission in Washington was in the interest of Johnson's candidacy in Ohio.

Eagle is quoted as saying that his visit to Washington was to see General Charles G. Dawes. He refused to amplify that statement. Washington political observers, however, believe that General Dawes' acceptance of the presidency of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, virtually eliminates him as a possible presidential candidate.

Senator Johnson's illness yesterday prevented him from conferring with Warner and Eagle.

Fought Indorsement

Warner stirred the state central committee at Columbus two weeks ago by his outspoken opposition to a resolution indorsing President Hoover for renomination and authorizing Walter F. Brown, Hoover's postmaster general, to pick the delegates. However, the committee adopted the resolution, despite Warner's protests.

It was inferred from statements by the Washington visitors yesterday that they believed any Republican candidate of national prominence could upset the Hoover slate of delegates from Ohio in the primary election.

No statement from Johnson regarding his views on his proposed candidacy in Ohio had been obtained today.

ACKLEY INDICTMENT IS NOLLED IN W. VA.

Arson Charge Against Marion Man Dropped in Spencer Court.

While George W. Ackley, local real estate dealer, was preparing yesterday to go to Spencer, W. Va., on the trial on an arson charge, the indictment against him was nolled, according to J. W. Jacoby, his attorney.

Ackley was charged with allegedly setting fire to his hotel at Ripley several months ago in an effort to collect insurance. The case has been pending several months having been continued from last November when it was originally scheduled for trial.

His attorney stated that Ackley was prepared to prove that he was in Marion when the fire occurred, and that, had the hotel been destroyed by fire, the holder of a $27,000 mortgage on the building, and not Ackley, would have been benefited from the insurance.

The fire did approximately $500 damage to the hotel. Mr. Jacoby said. Ackley was arrested last March 27 on a warrant from C. G. Stahlman, state fire marshal located at Charleston, W. Va. Ackley has been free on his own recognizance.

DEMOCRATS TAKE UP APPORTIONMENT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. Feb. 2— Apportionment of delegates and alternates for the Democratic state convention was before the Ohio Democratic central committee meeting here today.

Earl Hansfeld of Ottawa, chairman, said the committee intended fixing a ratio of representation on the basis of the vote cast for Governor White in 1930.

Delegates and alternates will be elected at the May primary together with a new state committee which will be charged with setting a convention date and preparing a program.

BANK BURNED TO DEATH

PORTSMOUTH, O., Feb. 2— Joseph Fleming, 35, was burned to death in the Farmers Bank at Otway, Scioto county, early today when fire destroyed the building. Fleming, who lived in the bank building, was trapped by the flames. Origin of the fire was unknown. Loss was estimated at $10,000.

BISCHOFF SLEEPS AT HEARING ON SANITY

Judges Weigh Evidence After Doctors Say Child Slayer Is Insane.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 2—The opinions of 10 medical men, all of whom testified Charles J. Bischoff, 45-year-old cobbler, was insane, were weighed by five judges today, to determine the fate of the confessed kidnaper-killer of six-year-old Marian McLean.

Bischoff apparently was the least interested person in the crowded court room yesterday, being unable to stay awake. Once he nearly fell from his chair, but awakened to jerk himself erect and grin sheepishly.

Last to testify for the defense was A. C. Fricke, one of two lawyers appointed as Bischoff's counsel. Fricke said they were unable to prepare a defense because of Bischoff's inability to give a rational statement.

Bischoff waived jury rights. The five judges will determine whether he is insane and is to be sent to the state hospital for criminal insane, or tried on a first degree murder indictment.

Here Is One Who Can Keep Her Mouth Shut

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 — Mrs. George Ward's silence was golden.

She and her husband were inspecting furniture in a store last night when three robbers entered.

The holdup men invited the Wards to sit on a divan. They obeyed, but Mrs. Ward said nothing.

While her companions menaced the store manager and a clerk and robbed the till of $10, one of the trio kept talking to Mr. and Mrs. Ward, but she kept her mouth shut. It was not until they left that she opened it. She reached in and pulled out $700 worth of jewelry.

Senate Committee Hears of Purported Use of Political Influence.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 1—Supporting her charge that influence was used to obtain the release of prisoners held in the Ohio penitentiary, Miss Leona Esch of Cleveland, today recited cases in which she said pressure was brought to bear

Miss Esch, secretary of the Cleveland association for criminal justice, told a senate committee investigating conditions at the Ohio penitentiary that James McNamara, convicted in Cleveland for the murder of a policeman was paroled in 1915, after serving only three years of his sentence on representations made to Governor Willis by Charles P. Salen, a Cleveland politician, that release of McNamara would be "people with the Irish."

Thomas W. Fleming, former Cleveland Negro councilman, now serving a term for soliciting a bribe, was instrumental in obtaining the release of Clarence Roy, Cleveland Negro serving a life sentence for murder, she said. Roy was sentenced to life for second degree murder in October, 1918, and released December 22, 1924.

A report that the record of Frank Sharpiro, Cleveland robber sentenced to serve from 15 to 25 years for robbery, was so bad it could not be written on paper had no effect in keeping him in jail, Miss Esch said. According to Miss Esch, a Columbus attorney obtained $25 from relatives of Shapiro, and requested $400 be kept in escrow until he could obtain Shapiro's release. The prisoner was freed early in 1931, after serving seven years.

DOCTORS PROBE DEATH PUZZLE

Two Mt. Vernon Brothers Dead, Third Stricken by "Mystery" Ailment.

By The Associated Press

MT. VERNON, O., Feb. 2—Cause of the mysterious deaths of two brothers and the probably fatal illness of another, was sought today while the parents waited in despair.

Stanley, 9, eldest of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Passig, died Jan. 24. Raymond Passig, 6, died Sunday. His brother, Marion, 8, was stricken at the same time.

Doctors feared he would not survive.

One theory was that the boys were victims of snake root poisoning from drinking milk from cows which may have eaten the poisonous plant. A sample of Marion's blood was sent to the state health department in hope that analysis may aid the diagnosis.

High fever and a breaking-down of the blood preceded the deaths.

Neither the parents nor their three other children showed any signs of illness.

BOARD STARTS TASK OF AIDING BUSINESS

Reconstruction Corp. Directors Pitch In To Speed Return of Confidence.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—The reconstruction Finance corporation, biggest hope of the government for quick restoration of confidence in business, goes to work today.

Taking an oath to do their level best for the United States was the first task for the directors. After that they were free to plunge into the big job of lending money to banks and industries which need it most.

Charles G. Dawes, president, and Harvey C. Couch and Jesse H. Jones, directors, received their commissions from President Hoover yesterday after Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, cut senate red tape to send the approved nominations to the White House, a day ahead of time.

Wilson McCarthy of Utah, nominee for the final place on the board, will be confirmed by the senate probably tomorrow.

Groundhog, Forecasters at Odds Over Weather

If Mr. Groundhog peeped from his burrow today and then quickly scurried to cover it probably wasn't because he was frightened by his shadow. The chances are slight that his shadow was visible in this locality.

That should mean, if the legend is correct, that winter is on its last legs, if any. But for once the weather forecasters are at odds. If the legend is right spring is coming, but if the weather bureau is right winter is just getting started and colder weather is due. Wednesday, probably, will be a repetition of today's weather, with the mercury expected to climb to the 40's.

Nowhere in the nation was the cold of extreme severity, an Associated Press report stated, although there was no cold wave reported in New York, Michigan, Minnesota and Ontario.

The temperature in Marion yesterday was slightly higher than the preceding day. Last night's low of 26 was equal to the coldest night of Sunday, when the low was 26. Yesterday's high was 39, the maximum for the day a year ago. The maximum Sunday was 42.

At Lake Placid, where winter sport events were postponed, the mercury stood at 40 above zero. Ice on the lake was reported thinning and the snow was soft.

Warmth took charge of the weather, with the exception of the cold wave, which is centered in the Canadian northwest, in Montana and in the Dakotas.

HEAVY JAP GUNS BOMBARD SHANGHAI

(Copyright, 1932.

By The Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Feb 2 Four Japanese eight pound guns, hidden behind the butts of a rifle range in Honkew park, poured shells at the Chapei sector of Shanghai this afternoon, and 2,000 bluejackets massed to follow up the artillery attack.

The Japanese swung their heavy guns into action at 4:30 p. m., and the new action drowned out the din of the previous encounter, the rattle of the machine guns and the booming of the lighter artillery and the Chinese trench mortars.

The bombardment followed a long air reconnaissance by Japanese planes which struck terror into the hearts of both foreigners and Chinese, in close to another bombing to hobble whatever the city.

Earlier in the day the Chinese issued a statement declaring they would oppose any further Japanese attacks, but would be ready to refrain from touching the foreign settlement.

Chinese refugees, panicky over the new Japanese move, poured in a human torrent into the city, aggravating a situation that already was serious enough with the safety of Chinese in the International settlement leamed by Japanese invasion there, most of the refugees today made for the French concession, where a stern defense has been set up by French troops.

Street Scenes of Panic

Traffic was jammed and backed up for blocks in the streets of the settlement as the motley throng crushed through the gates. Thousands of them were afoot, and weighted down with bundles. Women carried children in slings on their backs Poverty, bewilderment and fear were written on their faces

While families, overcome with exhaustion and discouragement, camped upon the sidewalks The police were unable to cope with the frenzied throng

In the French concession, whither they were bound, an announcement had been made that any attempt by the Japanese to enter would be resisted by force Wire entanglements were erected around the French area, and French soldiers were on guard over them The boundaries were patrolled by armored cars

Chinese mortars continued to belch a noisy reply to the Japanese shelling

Evacuation Planned

The Japanese announced they intended to evacuate all Japanese women and children from the city by Feb 5, and this, with a report they planned to bring in two divisions of additional troops, increased alarm

The crew of a British armored car reported they saw a Chinese youth of 16 shot dead in the street by Japanese bluejackets yesterday when he stooped over while crossing a road

Later the crew reported, the bluejackets forced their way into a Chinese home and bayoneted the occupants A police report said the bodies of 12 Chinese men who had been put to death with bayonets were found on the bank of Soochow creek.

Sino-Japanese Developments at a Glance

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Japanese guns bombard pattle and fire-torn Chapei sector, and 2,000 marines pour into the area under cover of the barrage; Chinese, 15,000 strong, prepare to meet advancement of the Japanese on Honghjew, Japanese quarter, fleeing Japanese to prepare to evacuate before the Chinese.

Tokyo — Chinese warfare must be controlled, declares Japan in note to American protests, but insists on Japan's right to defend its 30,000 nationals in Shanghai.

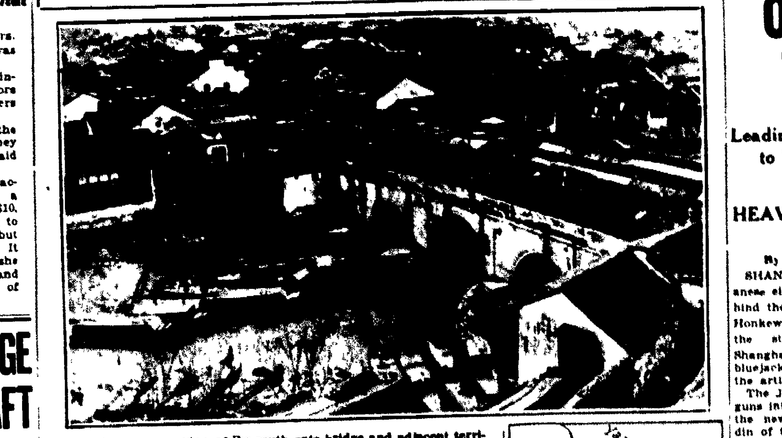
Nanking — Chinese troops ordered to hold fast to Shanghai front; Chinese government prepares to move to Loyang.

Geneva — League council calls on Japan and China to withdraw troops from Shanghai; Japan refuses to withdraw troops from Shanghai unless Chinese troops withdraw 20 miles from the city; China refuses to withdraw troops unless Japanese withdraw to their concessions.

Washington — Secretary Stimson declares Japan's refusal to withdraw troops from Shanghai is violation of the Nine Power treaty.

London — Japan refuses to withdraw troops from Shanghai unless Chinese withdraw 20 miles from the city.

NEW FAR EAST BATTLE SCENE



This panorama view of the south gate bridge and adjacent territory in Nanking, until a few days ago the capital of China, gives a graphic idea of the physical nature of the city which became a new center of international interest yesterday as Japan bombarded its and landed troops. Today the Japs and Chinese warring forces were reported facing each other across a "no-man's land" in the strife-torn city.

Trade Figures Explain Situation in Shanghai

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—Dollars and cents reasons back of Japan's invasion of Shanghai and the grave concern of other nations are shown in the international trade figures for that port.

By contrast Japan, almost at Shanghai's doorstep and with 20,000 subjects in Shanghai, sold only $58,000,000 and purchased $19,000,000 of goods. To a greater or less degree a boycott of Japanese goods has been in effect since 1928. The boycott has resulted in Chinese merchants purchasing from other countries the cotton goods and silks they formerly obtained from Japan.

The map above shows the international settlement in Shanghai with the Chapei district, where severe fighting has again taken place, marked prominently. The Japs bombarded Chapei today, and the bearded Chapei lads were preparing to fight back.

Japs Provide Fun at Geneva Arms Parley

(Will Rogers Special)

GENEVA, Feb. 2 Well, we are all here ready for disarmament The first laugh was when the Japanese delegation arrived, I don't know, but it struck everybody funny.

They have a large launch and everybody expects to see 'em take over the city and start martial law by morning. The younger members of their delegation that started out to the conference have been called back for military service.

Our female delegate, Miss Wooley, is the outstanding novelty I had an hour and half each with her yesterday afternoon; didn't know whether to call her Miss, Mrs, Professor, Doctor or what, so I called her Doc; and Doc and I got along great

I had taken an interpreter, but I didn't need him, but some of my stuff had to be repeated to her. She is very plain, likable, broad in mind and body, feet and plenty of 'em, right on the ground. You would like her. She is not the type for college president at all. Thirty million women of this world have hope and faith in her common sense versus diplomacy.

It's no joking matter, getting the world to disarm; maybe a woman can do it. It's a cinch men can't, so good luck to you, "Doc."

Yours,
Will Rogers

"Stop Fighting," Is League Warning

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 2— America, Great Britain, France and Italy announced in brief military style an extraordinary meeting of the League of Nations council tonight that the Sino-Japanese fighting must stop and they would take immediate steps to prevent it.

The British cabinet member, spoke for his country and the United States.

Sir John Is In

When he had finished, Dino Grandi for Italy and the French representative announced that their governments approved the stand of Washington and made a similar declaration.

"This is everything but gunpowder," said Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, for Britain, "and from the unity of purpose it yields confidence that it will be effective. The conditions of the resolution are not unreasonable. It is for us to see that the resolution is carried out."

Yoshizawa, Japanese foreign minister, was not present at the session.
